reflections:
of a year
quickly past our grasp leaving memories and mental monuments to a time swept past that will always endure mistakes—discoveries—and more mistakes searching out answers to create new questions
the exciting exposure to new ideas attempting to keep pace with a world in high gear friendships that added to an invaluable reflection upon a future that its existence will aid a reflection that may be referred to for information for comparison or merely for pleasure lessons of success as well as those of failure remaining to remind of a year gone by a reflection acquired as a constant comin all of our moments and future reflections.

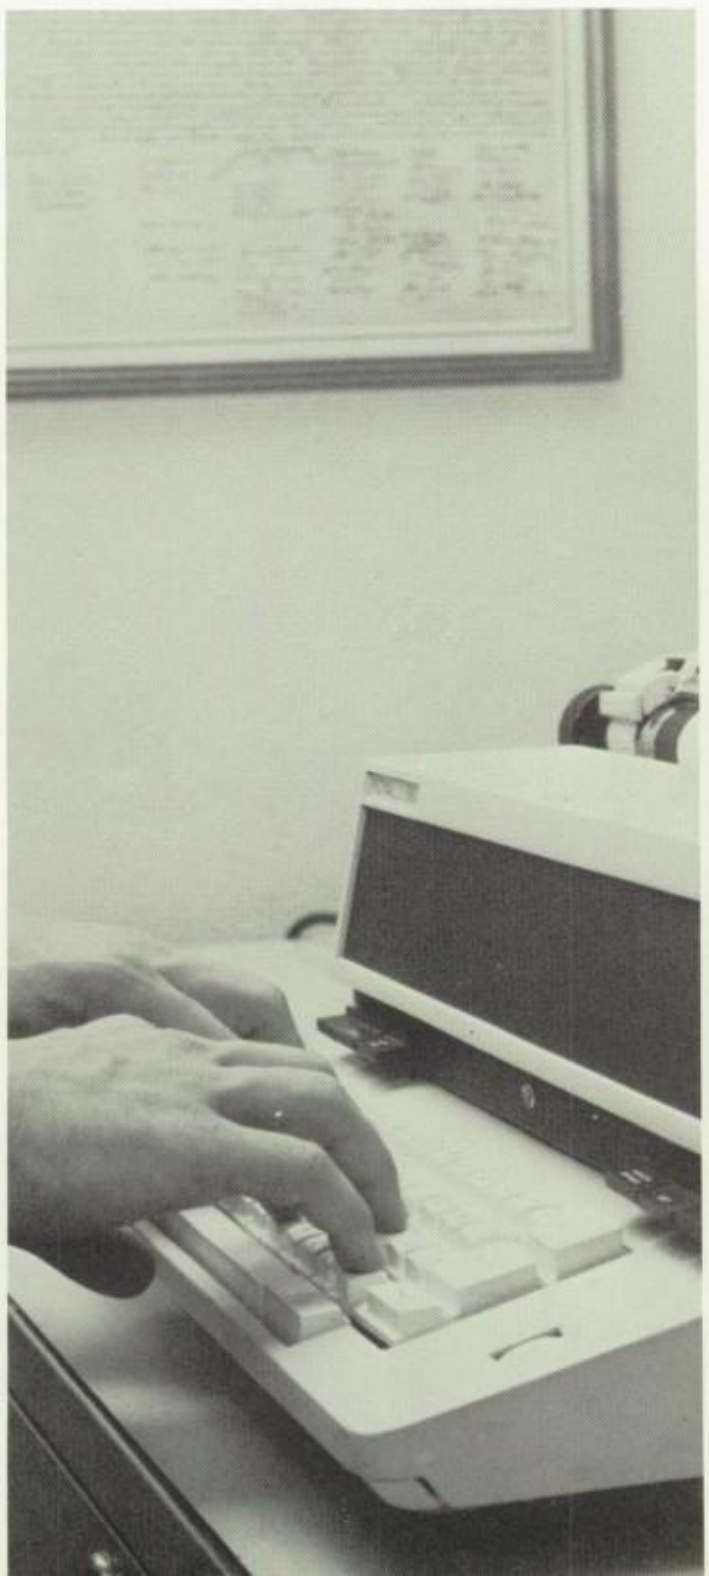
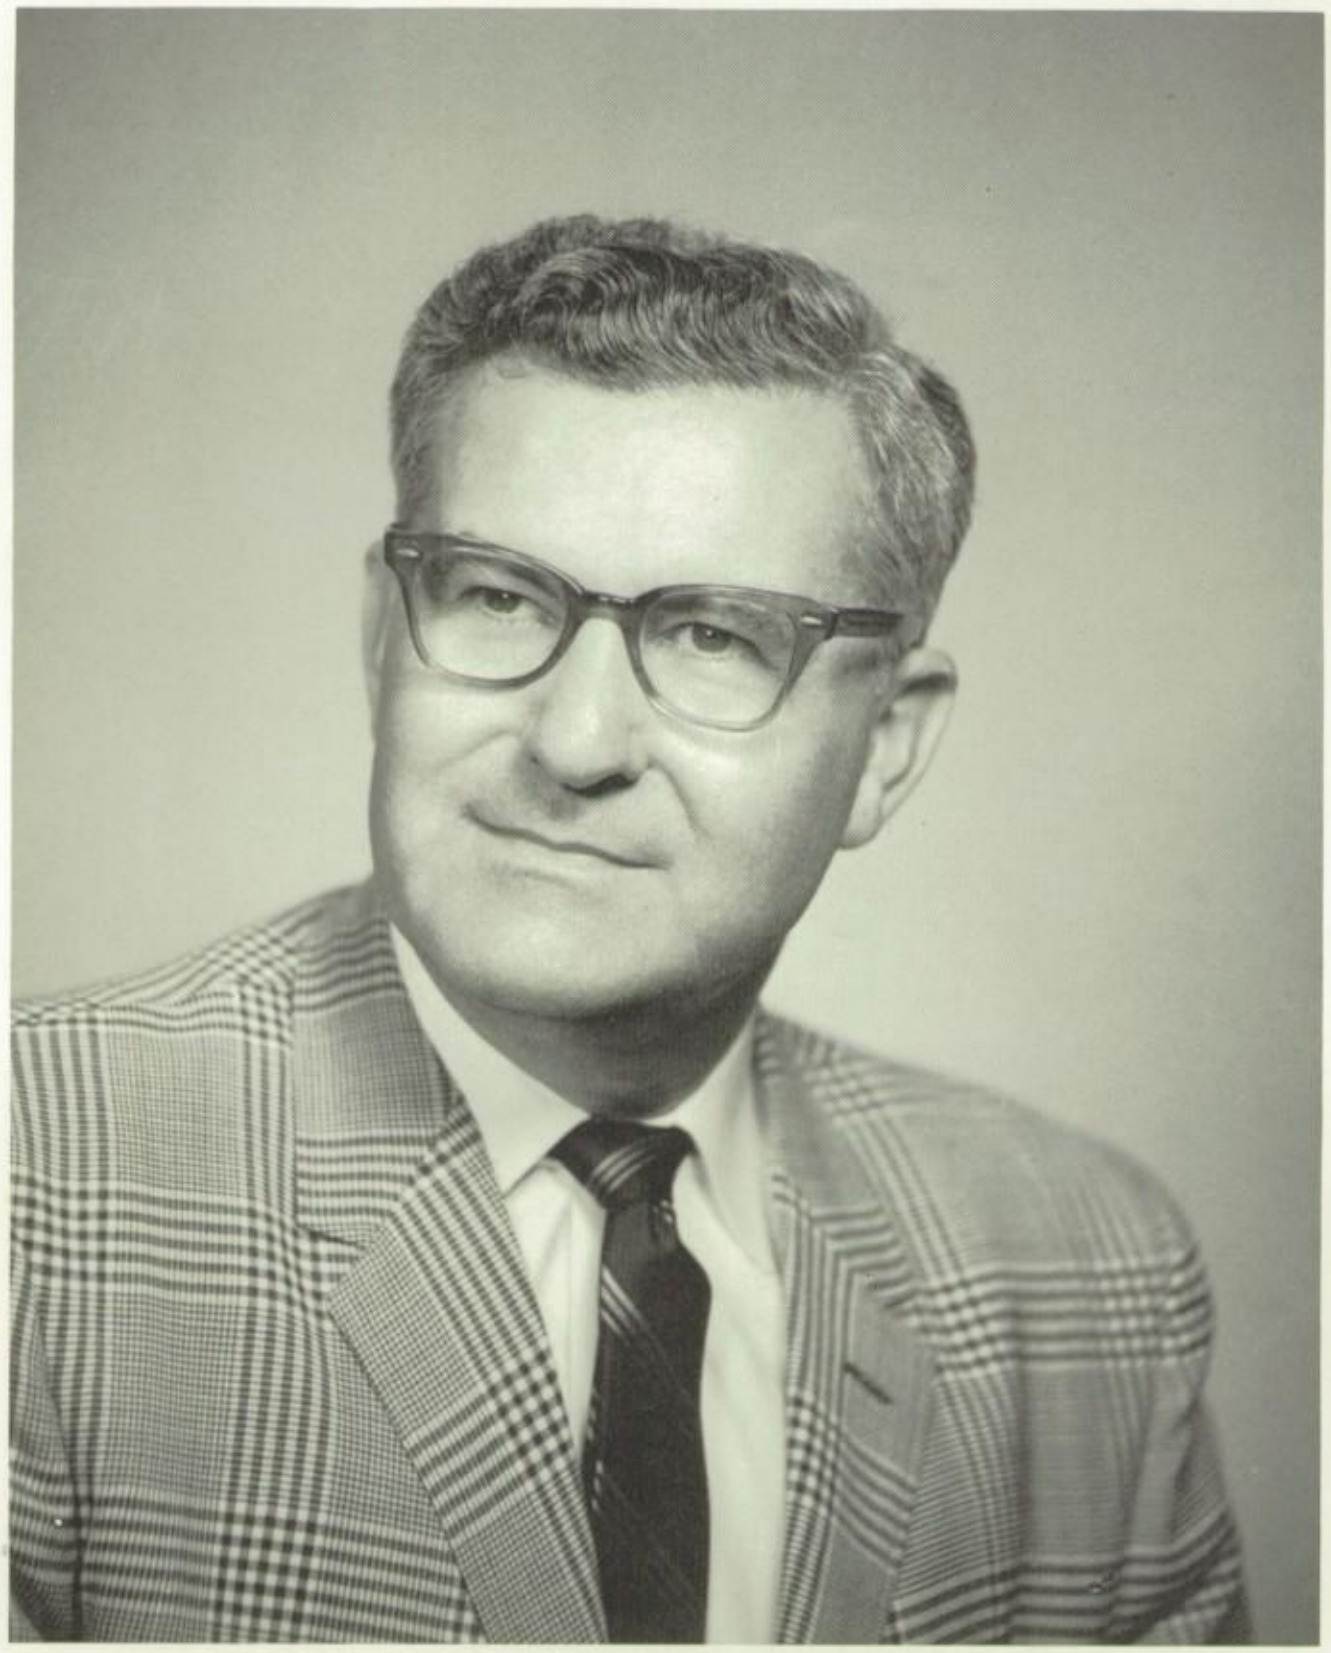
ADMINISTRATION AND FACULTY

TURRIS 68



HEADMASTER



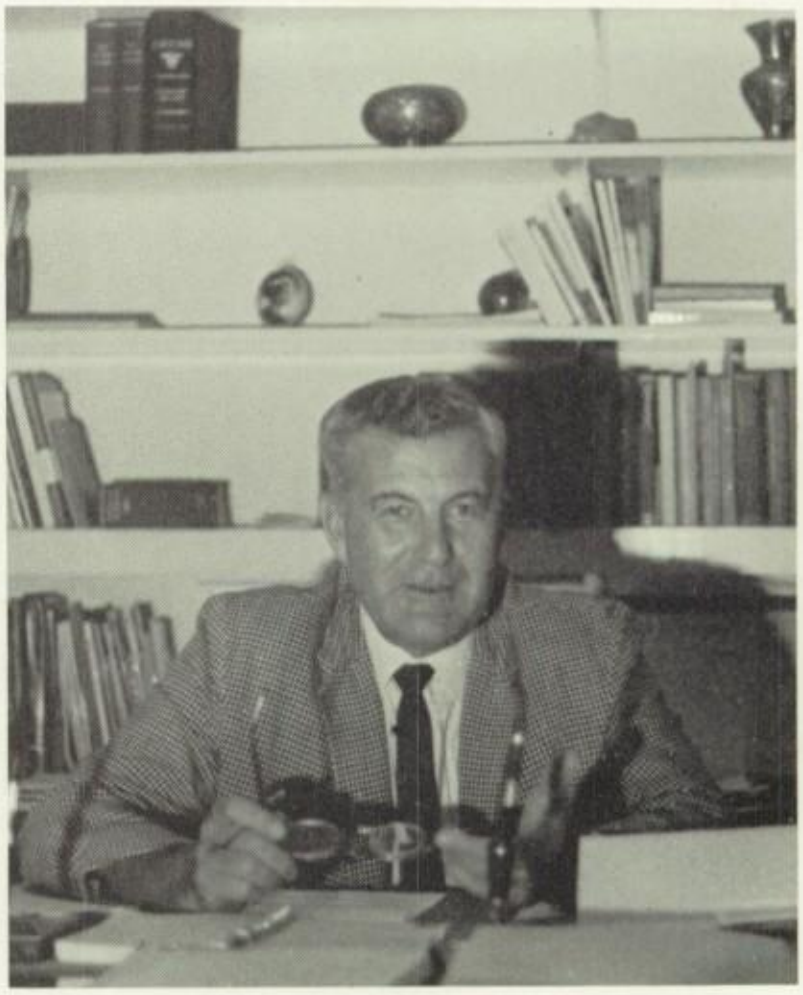
Give me a B . . . O . . . L . . . L . . . . . .

CARL E. REED

Headmaster

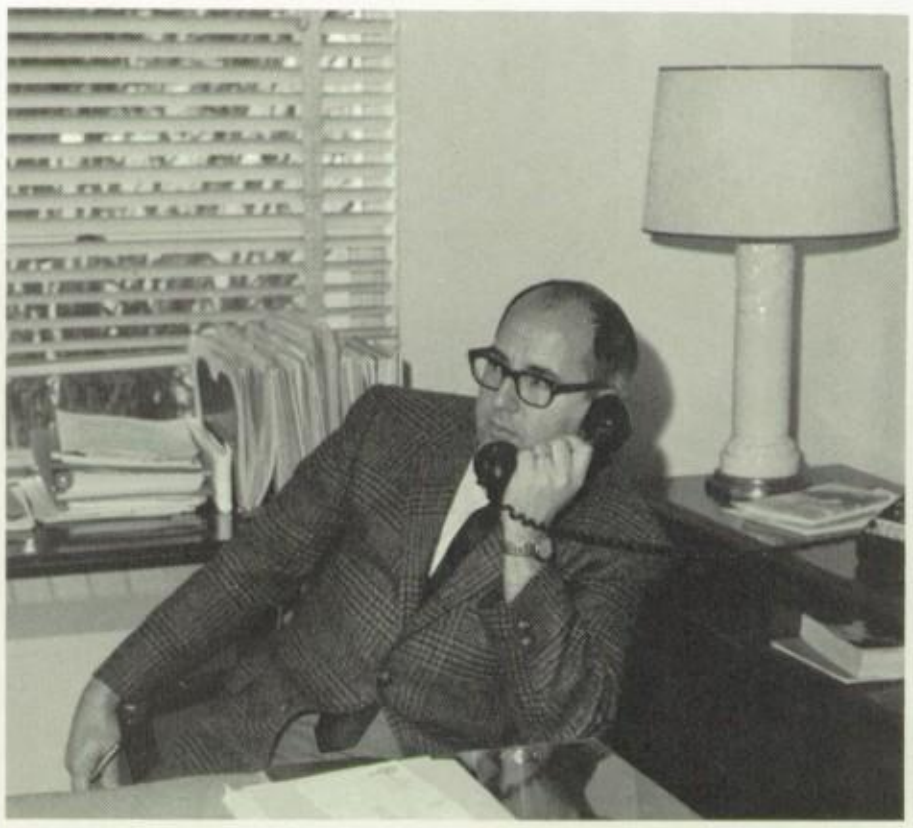
The advances made by any school depend to a great extent upon the depth of foresight possessed by its leader. Dr. Carl E. Reed has led the students, the faculty, and the School from that "fifty-yard line" onto greater goals.

During his four year administration, the word has been "Forward." Bolles' progress can be measured by the completion of the new library, the development of the sports complex, the increased demand for admission, the assemblage of an outstanding faculty, and increased school spirit. Through his character, ideals, keen interest, and sincere devotion, Dr. Reed has successfully led Bolles through rather difficult years from a prominent military academy to a high prestige prep school.



DIRECTOR OF THE UPPER SCHOOL

As Director of Studies, the important responsibilities of programming of classes and coordination of the academic day in the Upper School fall to Mr. Rufus McClure. Needless to say, his role is one which is vital to any well-functioning school. During his seventeen years of service to Bolles, he has worked continually to better the standards of education and to build Bolles into one of the nation's top preparatory schools.

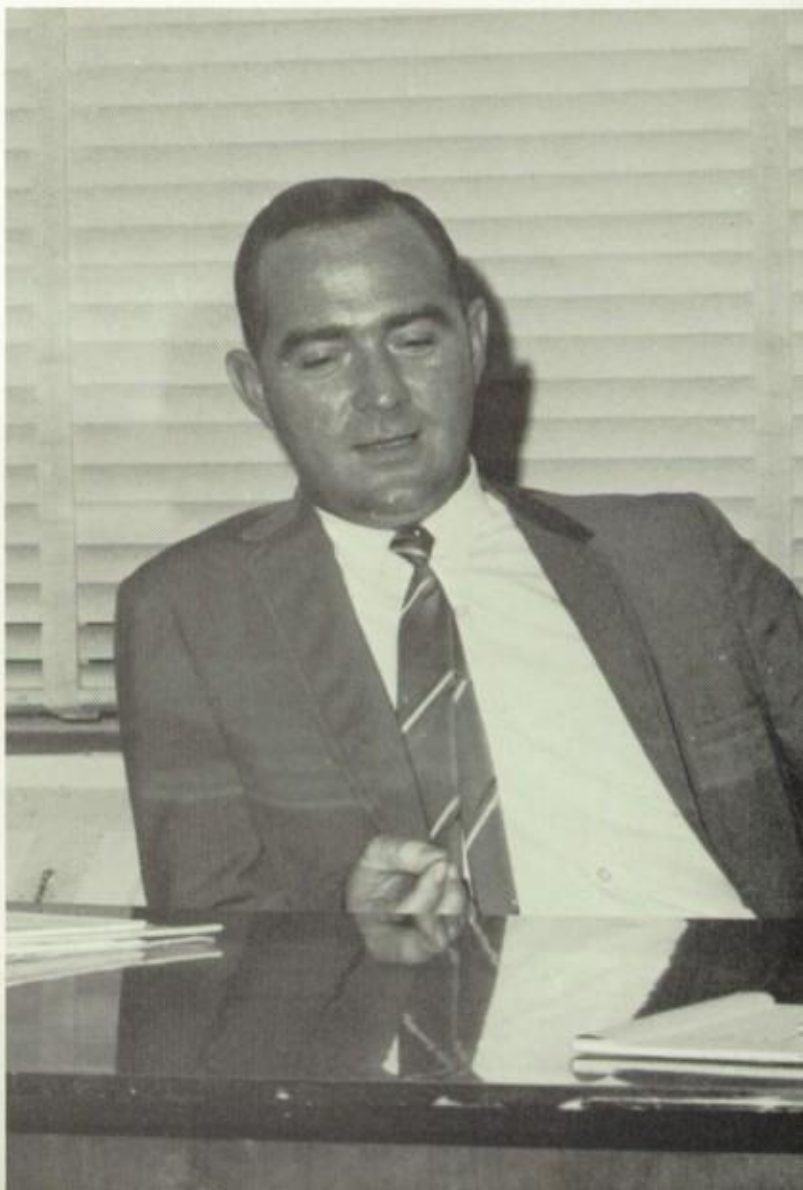


DIRECTOR OF THE LOWER SCHOOL

The Bolles Lower School is directed by Mr. Ellis Lanquist. Under his guidance, the seventh and eighth grade students undergo the difficult task of preparing for high school. "Maj." is always around to help Lower School students solve whatever problems they may have—large or small. The Lower School teaches the Bolles' Leaders of tomorrow. This important part of Bolles could not function without the attention and experience of Mr. Lanquist.

ASSISTANT HEADMASTER

Among the administrative hierarchy in any school, there must be at least one man who has the ability to keep in close association with the students in spite of the "age gap" which exists between the students and administration. Such a man is Mr. Joseph T. Dyess, Assistant Headmaster at Bolles for the past two years. Various other duties include positions on the Disciplinary Committee, Academic Committee, besides being the Director of Guidance, and teaching English during the day. Mr. Dyess successfully fills the necessary role of liaison between the "age of teaching" and the "age of learning." He is a man who will listen to students with problems and/or complaints and act—not simply listen and forget. This is why Mr. Dyess will not be forgotten by the students after their graduation.



DIRECTOR OF ADMISSIONS

Mr. Robert W. Love in his eighteen years of devotion to the advancement of Bolles and its science department has become quite a well-known figure around the campus. Having completed a year and a half as the Director of Admissions, Mr. Love has shown his qualifications for his position with his warm personality and his deep understanding of students. In addition to his official position as Director of Admissions, he is also the head of the Math and Science departments, chairman of the Disciplinary Committee, and a member of the Athletic Committee.

Outside of his official duties such as evaluating a prospective Bolles student's qualifications, Mr. Love shows deep concern and pride in Bolles —not only in its classes and their functions but in its appearance as well.

ASSISTANT TO THE HEADMASTER

One of the most hard-working individuals on the Bolles campus is the ever busy and dedicated Harry M. DeMontmollin. A graduate from Bolles in '56, "Mr. D" holds the positions of Assistant to the Headmaster, Director of Publications, Director of Publicity, Executive Secretary-Treasurer of the Alumni Association, and Senior Class Counselor, while finding the time to teach two Twentieth Century European History classes. Because he is primarily a behind-the-scenes worker, the recognition he duly deserves is generally not awarded him. An understanding man who "knows all the tricks", his warm sense of humor reserves for him a large place in the hearts and memories of all those who come in contact with him.

D.S.A.

Mr. Robert Funari, the Director of Student Affairs, is the symbol of discipline on the Bolles campus. His duties include planning student activities, enforcing school rules and inspecting school facilities. During his two years as D.S.A., Mr. Funari has done much to restore the student's respect for this position.

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

At Bolles, Physical Education is considered to be complementary to the education received in the classroom, since mental fitness depends reciprocally upon physical fitness. With this in mind, our Director of Athletics, Mr. Ray Dorman, must head the Sports Program for the year. It is his job to arrange the schedule for all inter-scholastic events and to plan the intramural program. This is Mr. Dorman's second year in his position although he has faithfully participated in Bolles' activities for the past fourteen years as a Dad, trustee, or staff member.

Bernhard Tieslau

BUSINESS

Bolles' Business Staff, unseen in its complicated task of bookkeeping, general office work, stenography, and balancing the school budget, deserves but asks no praise or reward for their hard work and sacrifice. However, without their efforts, such an organization as Bolles could not function. All students should be aware of its crucial job and offer unstinted praise to such a dedicated staff.

Ann Coker, Maxine Jones, Betty Pearce and Betty Wilde.

ACADEMIC STAFF

Taking charge of personal student records and transcripts is the Academic Staff whose efficient organization in setting up class and exam schedules and straightening out any minor problems that students have a way of finding are well-appreciated by the students and faculty members as well.

Gwen Brooks, Henrietta Bradley, Willene Pritchett and Ruby Young.

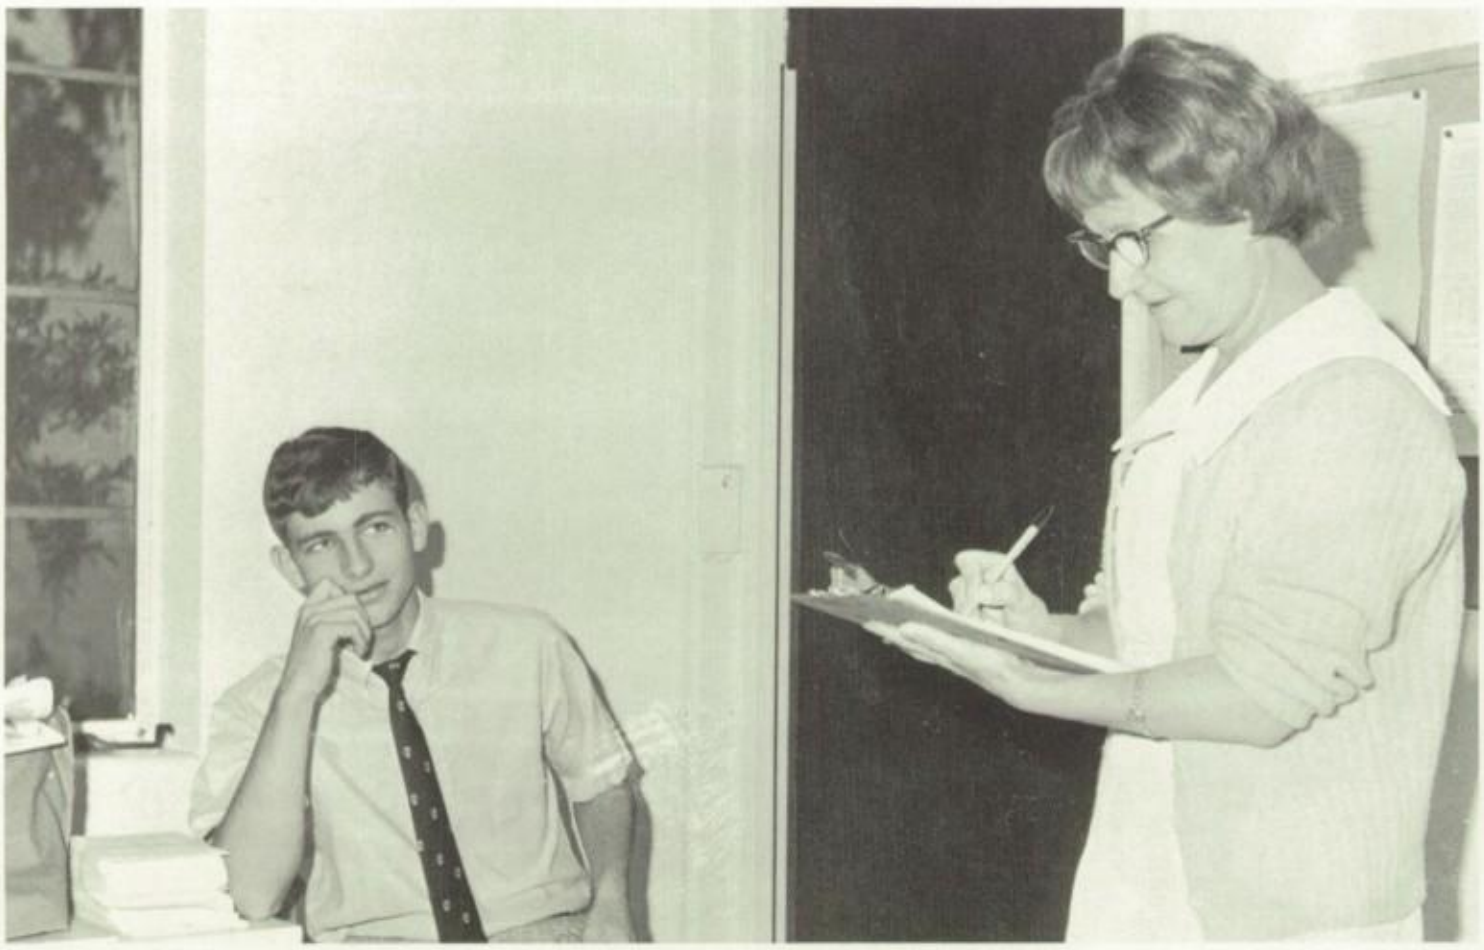
TRANSPORTATION

CANTEEN

The center of life on the Bolles campus is the canteen—a place where the students can buy snacks and school supplies as well as simply congregate and relax in a friendly atmosphere. In the canteen are situated the mailboxes for the boarders and the Book Store where students can buy the books not only required for class but for their own pleasure also.

MAINTENANCE

Much credit must be given to the tireless work of Mr. Carl Nieder and Charles Landiss for our well-heated dormitories. They also are in charge of the general upkeep of the school buildings, including the electrical systems and appearance.



INFIRMARY

Mrs. Rosella Marchand

Under the direction of Mrs. Rosella Marchand, the infirmary supplies the students with the best medical attention possible. The nurse is available at all times, ready to help in small or large situations, emergencies or daily needs such as the refilling of prescriptions or doctors appointments. Mrs. Marchand has proven to be a great asset at Bolles and we could not do without her.

Lester Revord

Mrs. Owen

SLATER FOOD SERVICE

This year the A.R.A. Slater Food Company headed the controversial food system. Though few basic differences were noticed in the actual food, several benefits such as picnics, special dinners for boarders with birthdays, and special lunches for outstanding athletic abilities were offered. Subtly, an agreeable change is taking place in the Bolles dining room.

Joseph T. Dyess

ENGLISH

This year Bolles finds itself with a relatively new staff of English teachers. However, their qualifications more than made up for their newness to the school. Headed by Mr. J.D. Britt, the English Department provides the student with a comprehensive study and understanding of both American and English authors and their works. The student also acquires skill in recognizing and evaluating literary techniques as they apply to their particular work as well as basic usage of grammar and style.

I always thought this was 20th century history seminar.

MATHEMATICS

Bolles has always been proud of its Math Department, due to an able and qualified staff. Math courses range from Lower School mathematics to Algebra 1 and 2, geometry, and for the more advanced students—trigonometry and college calculus. When speaking of the Math staff, the key word is experience—years of teaching having developed exceptional methods of instruction in a science which demands a great deal of patience, precision, accuracy, and independent thought and study—all basic requirements in today's world.

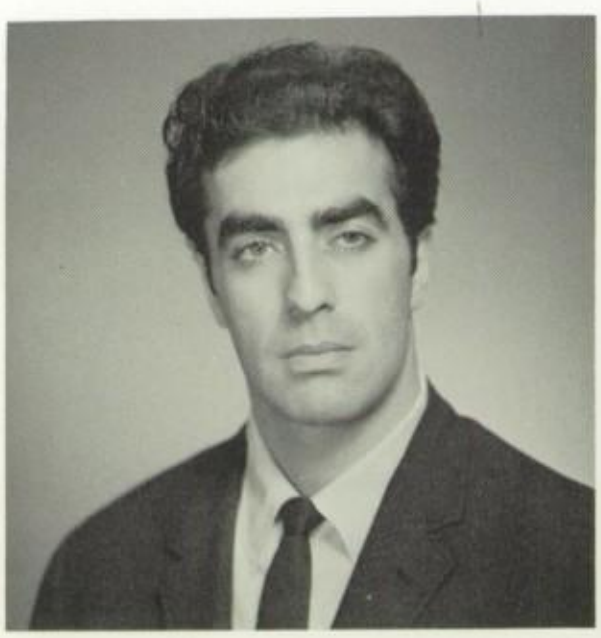
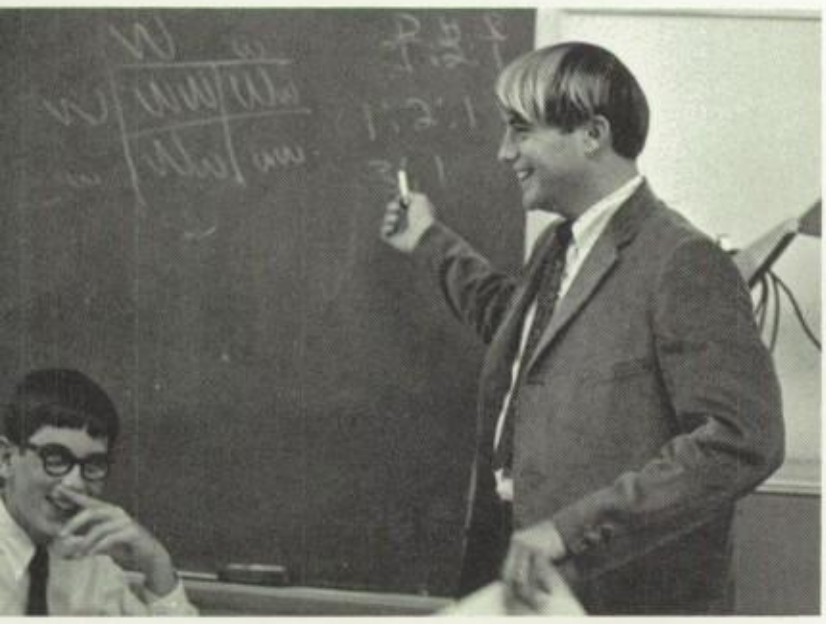
SCIENCE DEPARTMENT



Christopher Vaganos

Frank A. Anderson

Robert H. Black



The Bolles Science Department offers courses in general science, biology, chemistry, and physics, as well as Advanced Placement courses in biology and chemistry. Through the science courses, the student learns self-discipline through individual research and learning, instilling in him a desire to gain knowledge for himself as well as for all mankind.

The History Department, which is closely coordinated with the English Department, provides the student not only with the "whens" and "whats" but more important, the "whys"—the dealing with the psychological as well as the superficial factors involved in history. Courses in European history, both ancient and modern, and American history, a two-year course for greater depth, present the student with an insight into events and their effects, and into life itself.

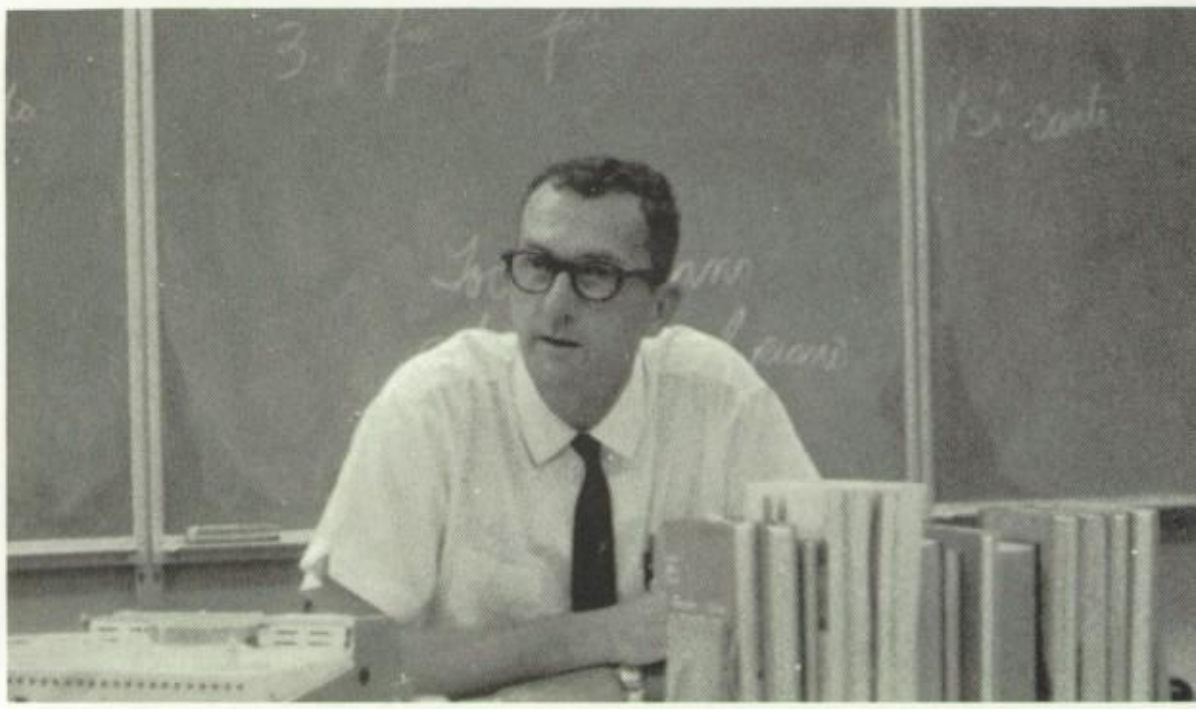
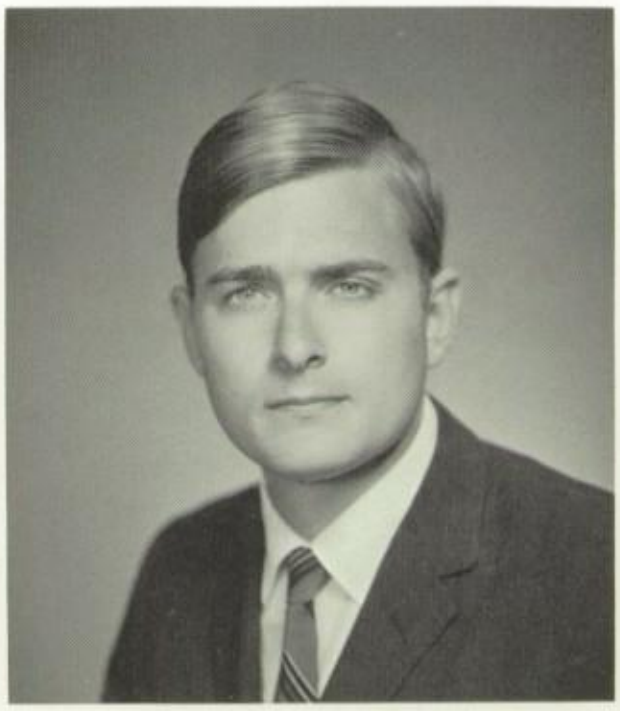
LANGUAGE DEPARTMENT



Albert F. Bachleda



Andrew Jitkoff

Octavio Garces

Luis Gomez

Bolles' Language Department this year is in its tradition of high quality and distinction. Headed by Mr. Fowler, the department consists of many teachers who are native-speaking in their respective languages, or who have had long experience abroad. To increase its flexibility, the department has in the planning stages (in preparation) a new language lab—where the latest and most advanced equipment will be utilized as teaching aids.

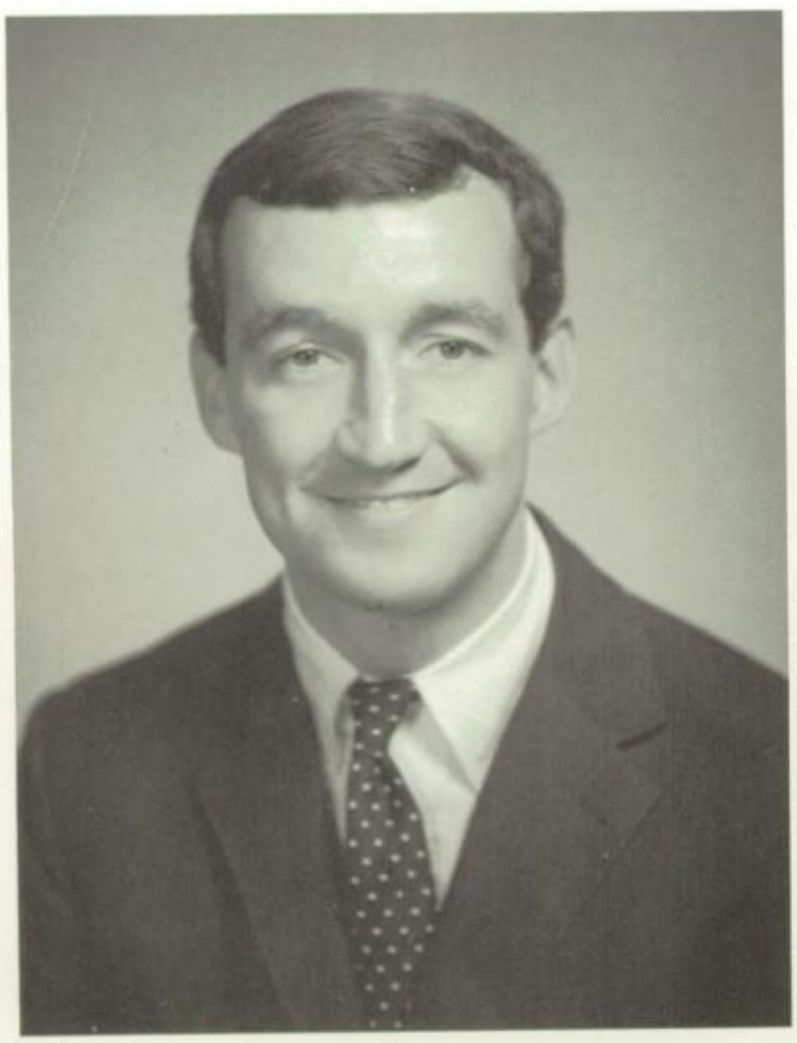
RELIGION AND PSYCHOLOGY

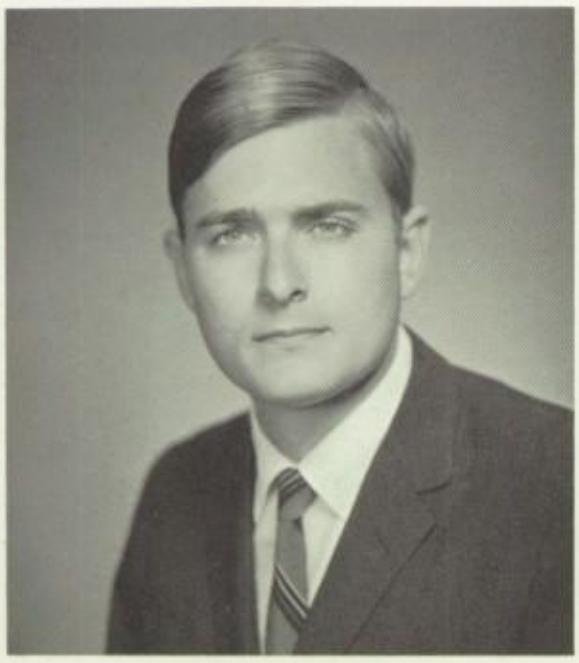
The Administration at Bolles is constantly striving to better its academic diversity. This year two new courses were added in a new field of study, The Humanites—Comparative Religion and Psychology, both taught by Mr. David Van Dusen, were quite successful in achieving their respective goals—to expose the student to various religions widely accepted outside of the United States, and to make full use of another aspect of life—mental hygiene. We at Bolles are confident that these additions will become the foundation for a more mature and fulfilling academic environment.

JOURNALISM

Journalism at Bolles in the past has been quite successful. The school paper and yearbook have won awards for their high degree of quality in statewide competition. Under direction by Mr. Graham Marlette, the '67-'68 Bolles Bugle has proved to be just as fulfilling as its predecessors. With an able and willing staff, the Journalism class worked diligently to uphold the reputation as an outstanding paper. The staff is confident that the tradition of great acheivement so long established at Bolles will continue to be a part of the School and its functions.



BUSINESS EDUCATION DEPARTMENT



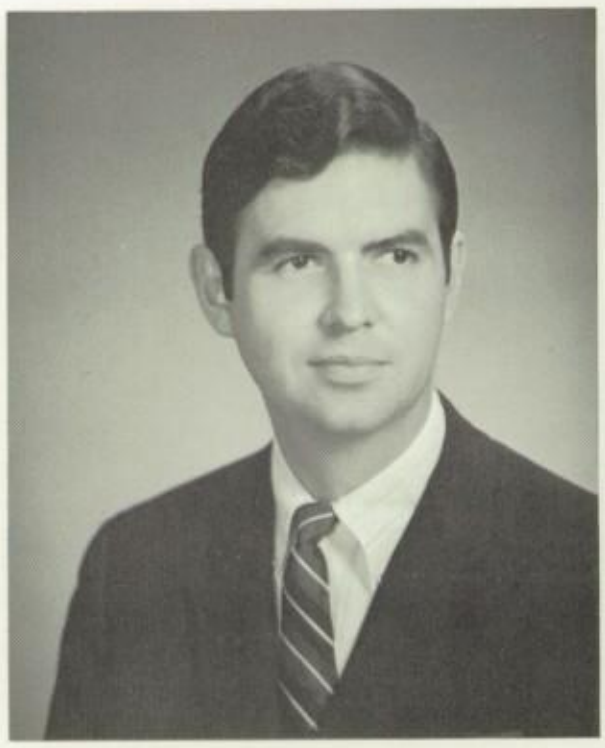
Mr. Jilkoff

In today's complex world, where more positions are becoming available, a much greater emphasis in being placed upon pre-formed skills in business education. To keep up with the fast moving pace, Bolles offers courses in economics and typing—those that help the student gain a greater knowledge in the fine points required to excel in the demanding field of Business Education.

Mrs. McCuller

MUSIC

The Music Department, under the direction of Mr. Robert Sandlin, not only teaches its students to sing but it also broadens their cultural realm. By studying musical theory and putting that theory into practice, the student develops a better understanding of the men and world around him, thus adding a warm dimension to his existence at Bolles.



Robert Sandlin, director

ART

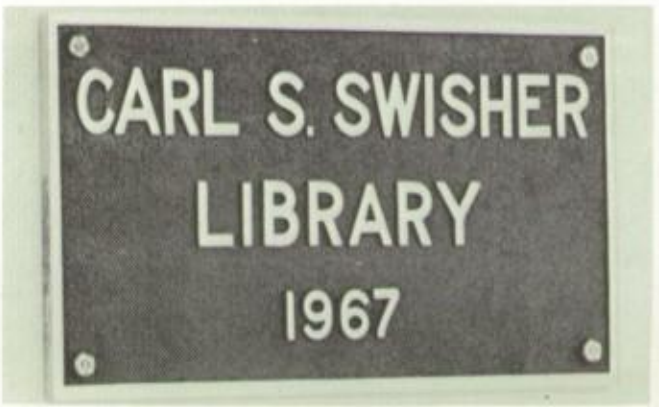
Bolles recognizes the fact that the imagination, perhaps man's greatest gift, must be brought out in youth in order to broaden a student's knowledge not restricted only to academics. Mrs. Huddleston's art classes encourage the student to and offer him an opportunity to utilize his imagination creatively to its fullest extent.

The lower grade level art classes generally emphasize the rudimentary skills in the use of wood cutting, paints, both oil and water coloring, and pastels, while older boys with more experience are allowed to develop their creativity on a more independent basis.

Mrs. Betty Huddleston

As the first completed phase of the Forward Fund, the new Bolles School Swisher Library opened this year under the direction of Mrs. Smith. Ultra-modern in design and with triple the handling capacity as the old library, it provides an atmosphere synonymous with studying. The latest in educational aids are used, including study carrels, a listening room with record players and records, and tape recorders and tapes. Acquisition and use of visual aids such as micro-films are in the immediate future. With efficient organization and direction, the new library has worked out marvelously this year and will continue to be an unlimitable asset to Bolles.

LIBRARY

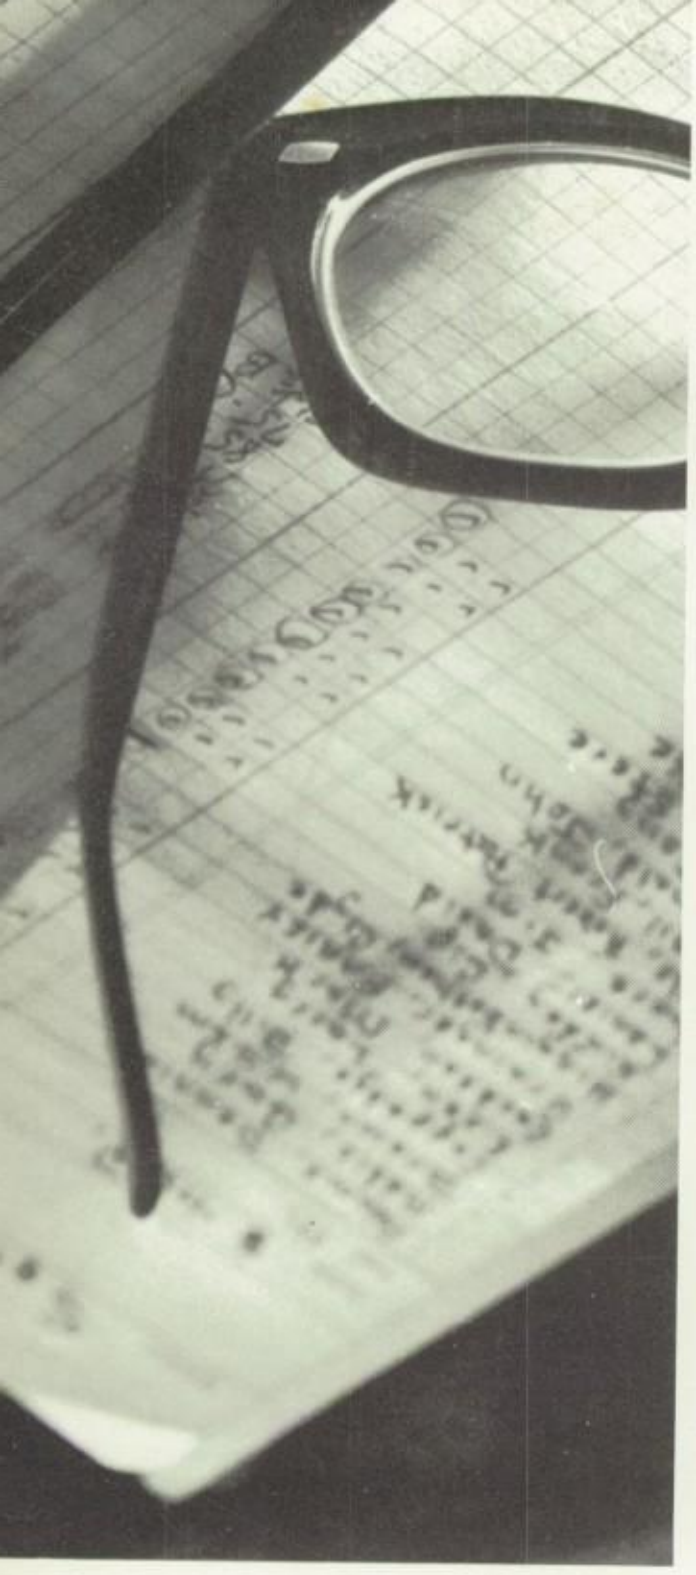


READING

Mrs. Eleanor Yelton

With the fact in mind that much, if not most, of the work done in college is reading, Bolles has developed a well-equipped reading laboratory which uses mechanical devices to insure improved skill in reading speed and more important, comprehension of what is read. With guidance from Mrs. Yelton, the student progresses at a rate equal to his own ability, becoming proficient in a skill fast-rising in importance to everyone, not just students, and one which offers ineffable benefits as well.

CLASSES



TURRIS 68

TURRIS 68

SENIOR CLASS

This class of '68 proved to be an exciting and dynamic crew of talent in applying themselves to the arduous rigors and demands of college-oriented class schedule as well as taking advantage of their precious leisure time. The senior class sparkled in effervescing bubbles of joy and sunshine preferring the quiet reserved to boisterous and purposeless in activity. It was a serious class, dominated by a high degree of intense dedication to the search for education in its most demanding form and to the development of character and maturity in the individual, with relation to himself and his environment.

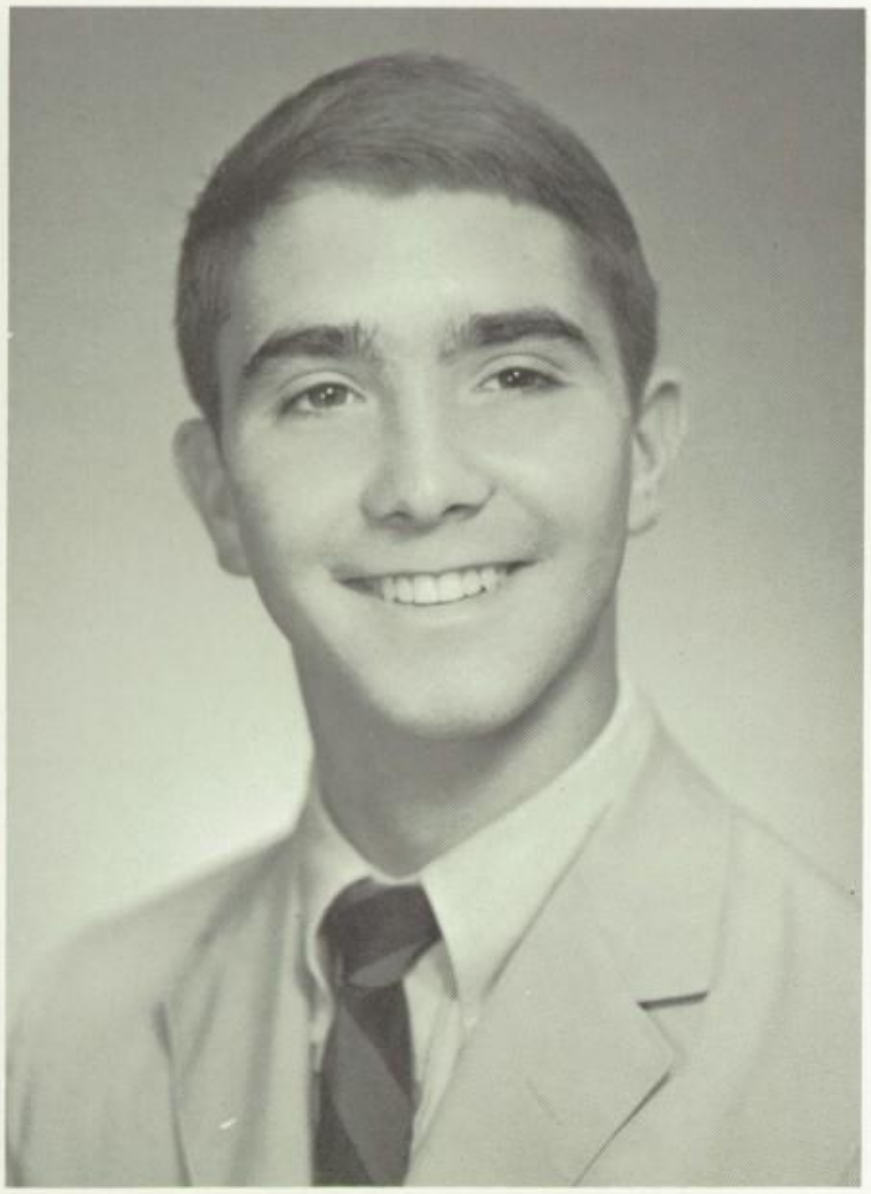
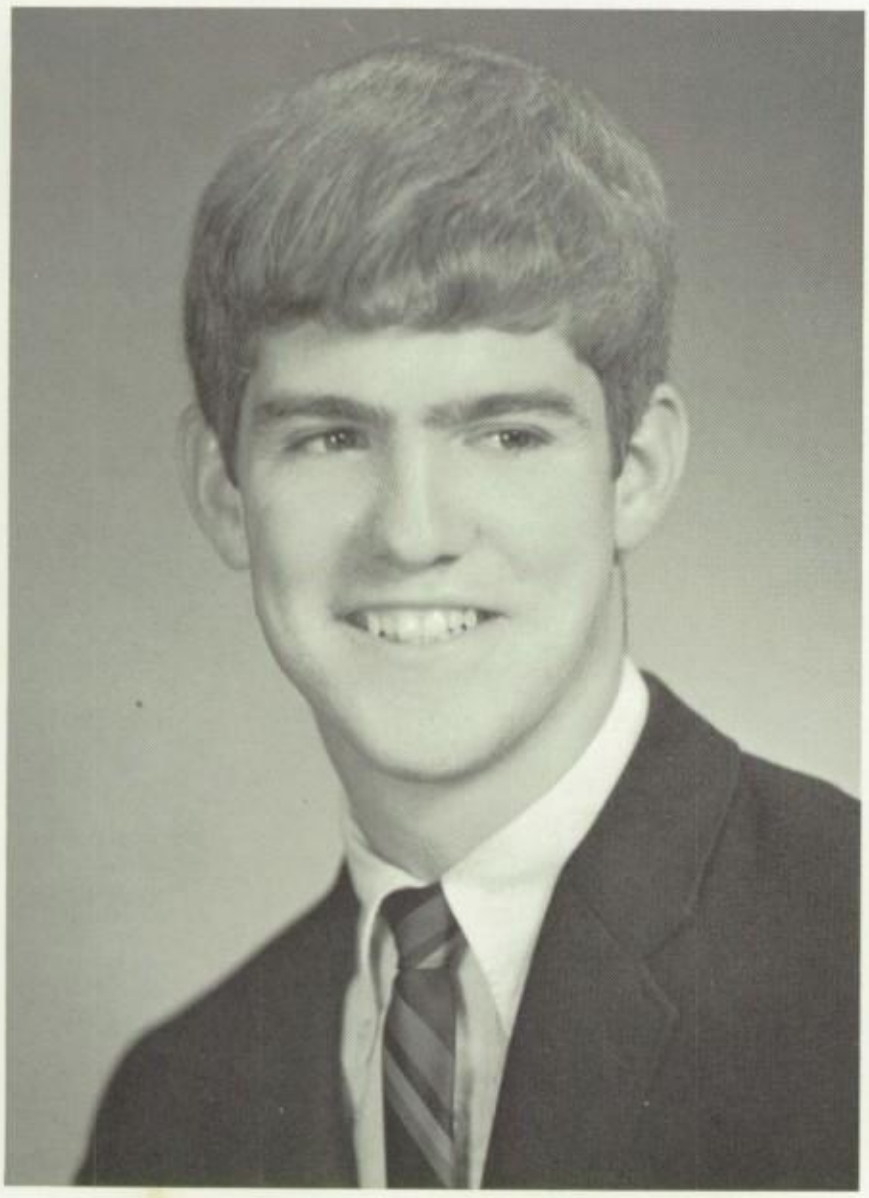
CHARLES FRANCIS HASELTINE
21 Kentucky Ave.
Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

"Charles" entered Bolles in his tenth grade year. While at Bolles he has been active in the activities of Bugle Staff, swimming team, Spanish Club, kitchen staff, and the Royal Order of Laundry Laborers. He plans to attend L.S.U., University of Florida, or Illinois Institute of Technology, where he hopes to study engineering or architecture.



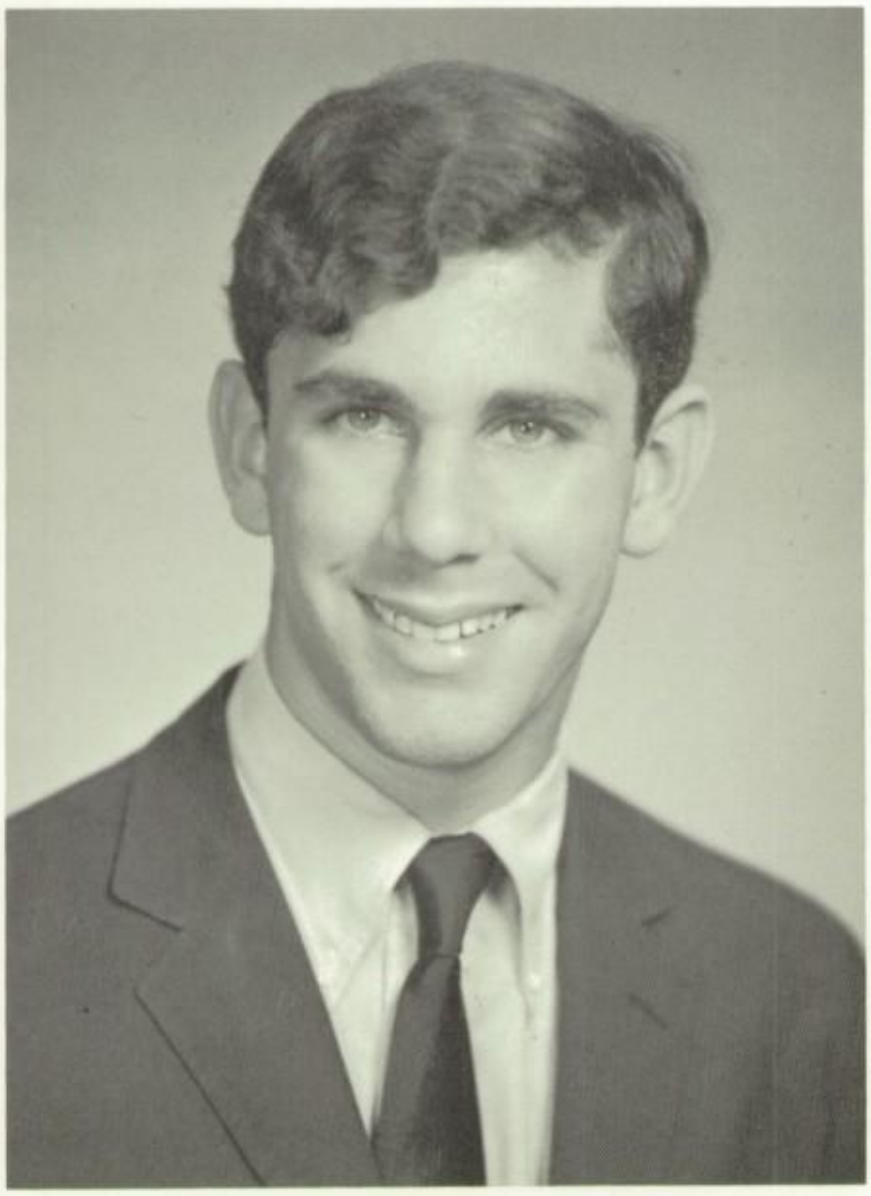
CLIFTON G. HIGBEE
5205 San Jose Blvd.
Jacksonville, Fla. 32217

"Cliff" entered Bolles six years ago in the seventh grade. While at Bolles he has participated in Varsity diving and track. Cliff's college hopes are the University of Florida, Florida State University, or the University of Georgia where he plans to study Business Administration. He likes to goof-off and eat lunch at Wolfson.



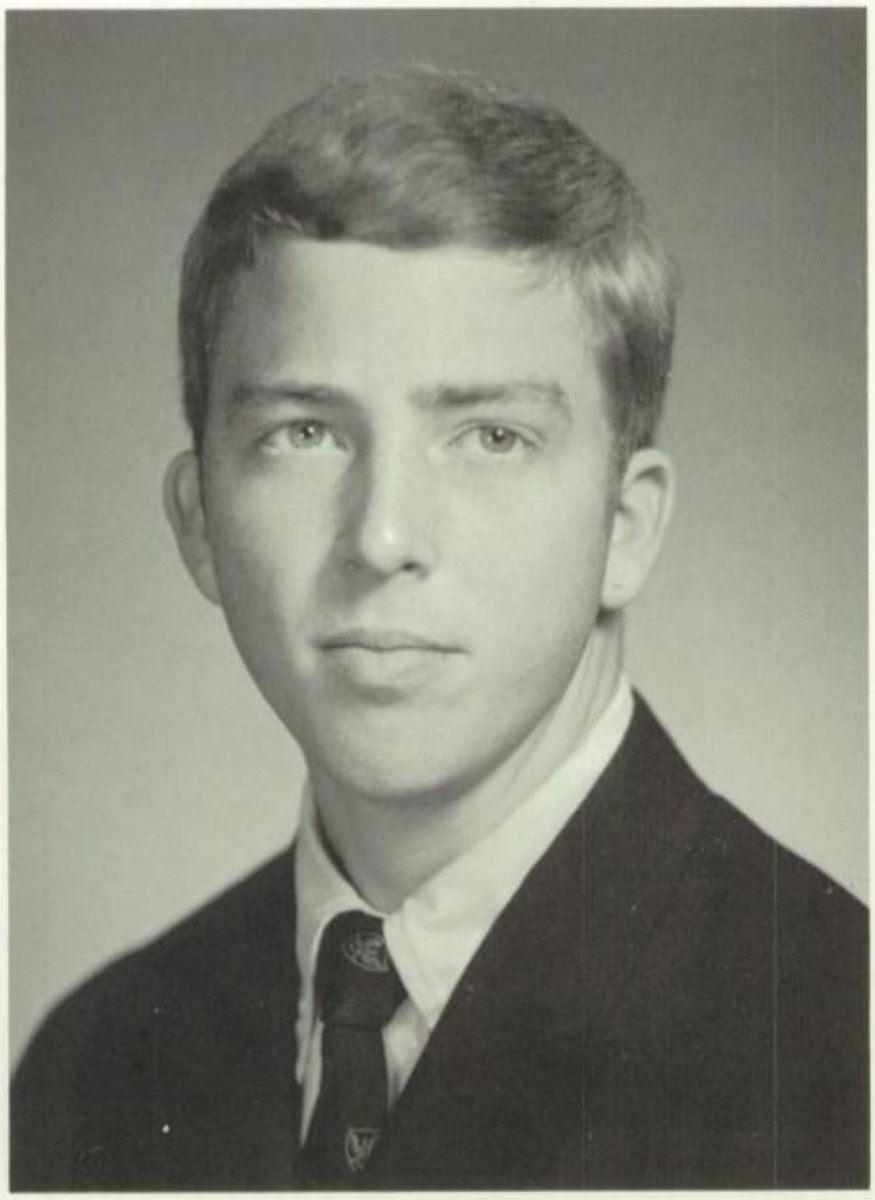
DAVID CHRISTOPHER HORNBUCKLE
7840 Smullian Trail W.
Jacksonville, Fla. 32217

"Chris" has been at Bolles for a long time. His hobbies are basketball and girl watching. While at Bolles, Chris has been an active member of the "B" Club. He plans to go to Asheville-Biltmore or any school where he can play basketball. This summer Chris will be practicing basketball and intensifying his girl watching.



MARC RICHARD HORNSTEIN
4650 Cumberland Drive
Savannah, Georgia 31405

"Marc" has spent three years at Bolles and while he has no hobbies, his favorite pastimes are observing and thinking. His summer and college plans are as yet undecided but he avidly admits the thing he likes about Bolles is leaving (quietly, true to his form).

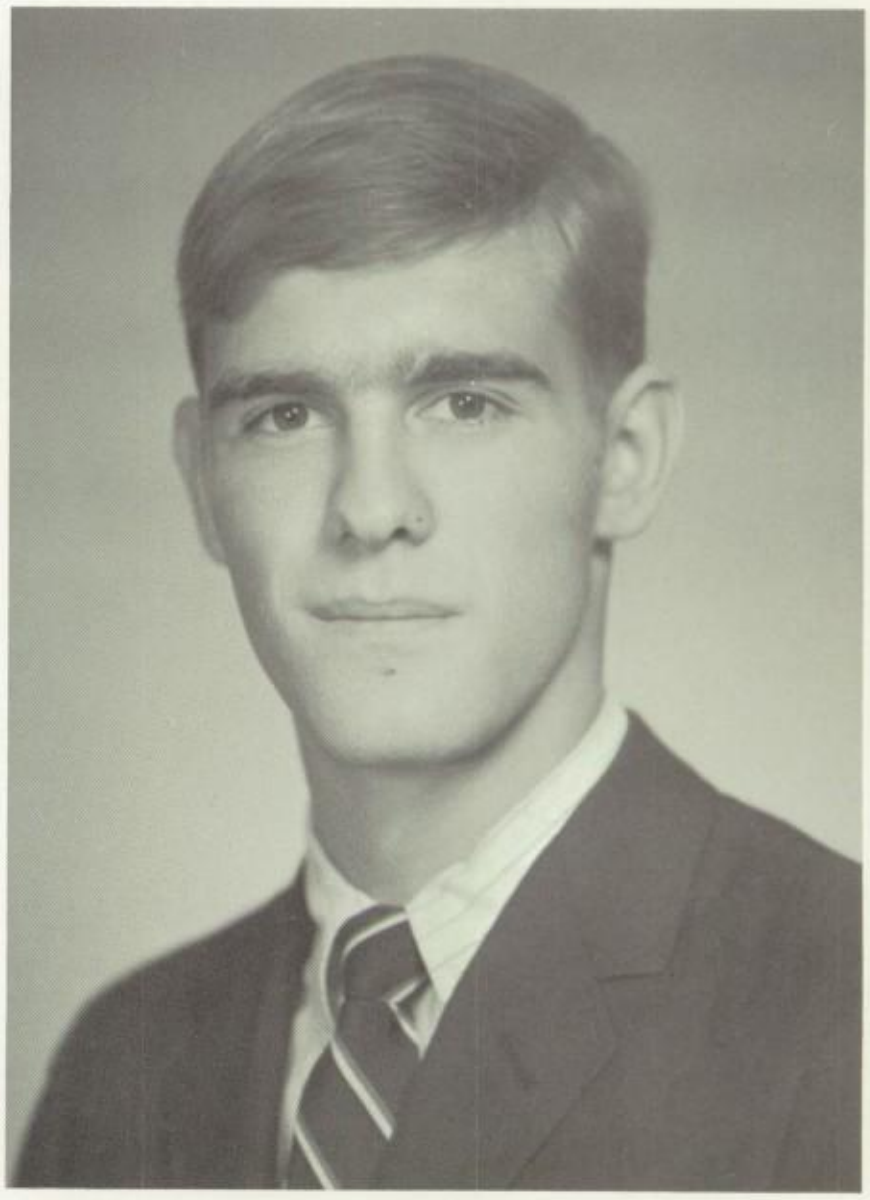


JULIAN DUANE JENSEN
4 N. Hardee Circle
Rockledge, Fla.

"Julian" entered Bolles in his junior year and he has been in the Spanish Club, Key Club, and a member of J.V. football. His college plans include Wake Forest, North Carolina State, or the University of Florida and he is interested in medicine although he has no definite idea as to what his major will be. This summer, Julian hopes to travel and work in a hospital. As his stay nears completion, he praises Bolles for the good food he has consumed for the last two years.

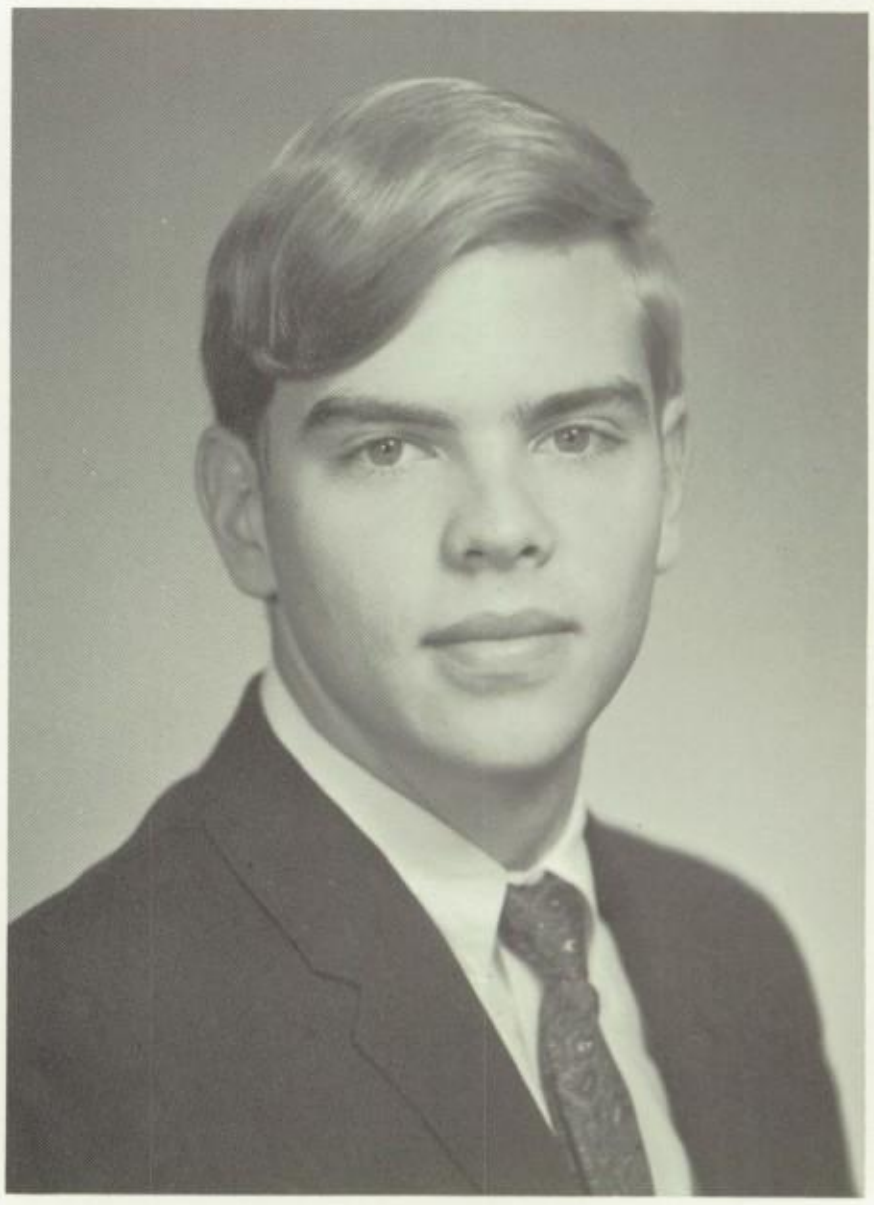
JEFFREY RICHARDSON JOHNSON
5224 Ortega Forest Drive
Jacksonville, Fla. 32210

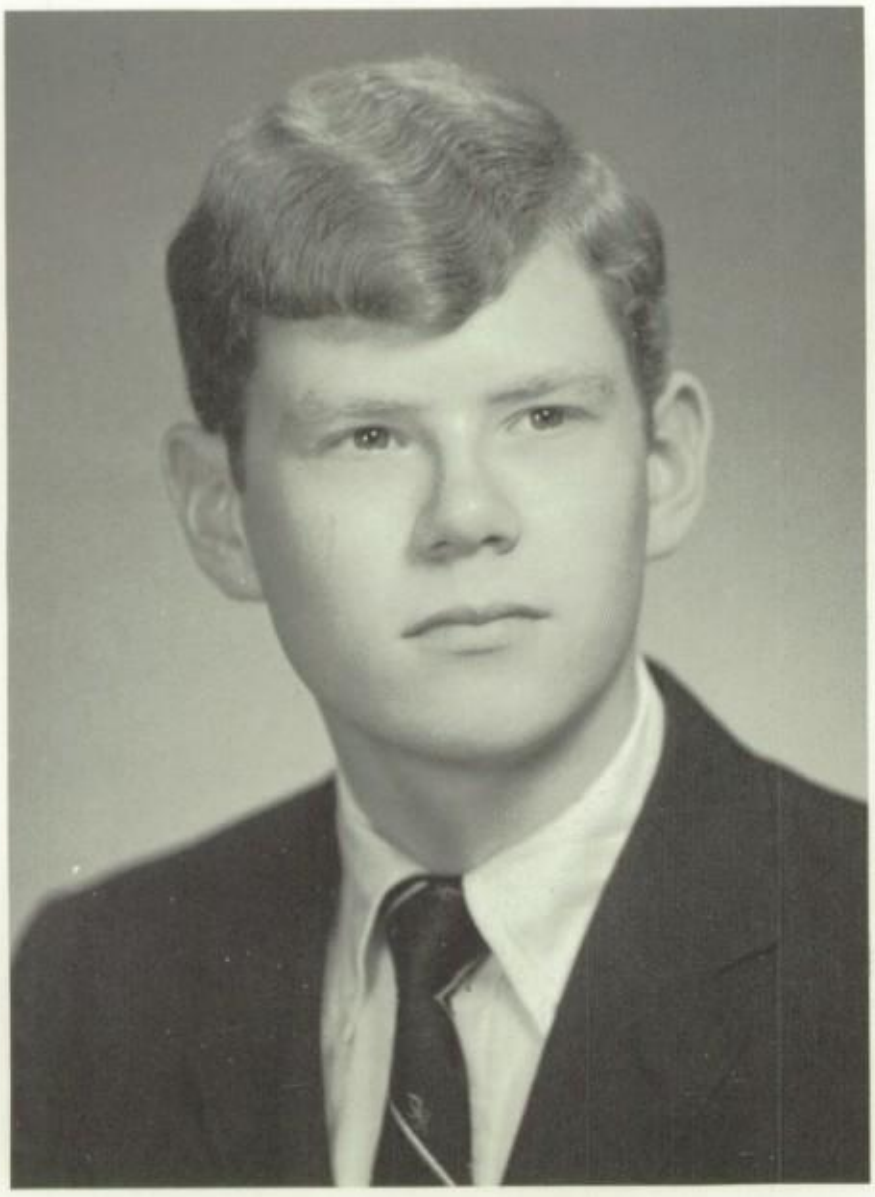
"Jeff" came to Bolles with his intolerable ability to mess things up in his junior year. His hobbies are hunting and skiing. Jeff has been a boarding judge and captain of the soccer team. He plans to enter Emory or the University of Georgia and study business. His summer plans vary between just being a great guy and ski jumping.



ROBERT EDWARD JOHNSON
1801 East Lake Cannon Drive
Winter Haven, Fla. 33881

"Bobby" has attended Bolles for two long years. During his stay he has worked on the newspaper staff, and made a meager attempt at gymnastics and weightlifting. He plans to attend F.S.U. or Polk Junior College in order to study fish. Bobby likes to play on the swings at the dragstrip and kick sand on the baby crabs at the beach.



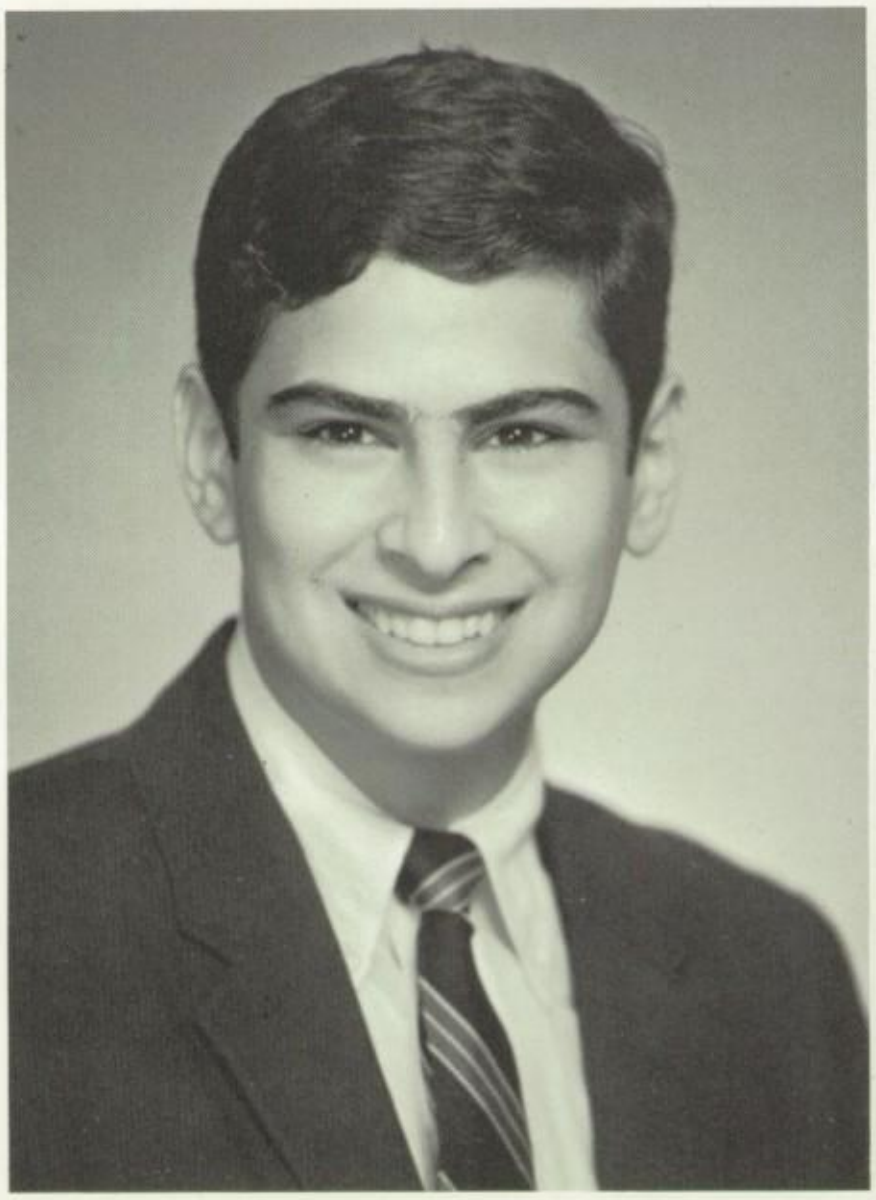


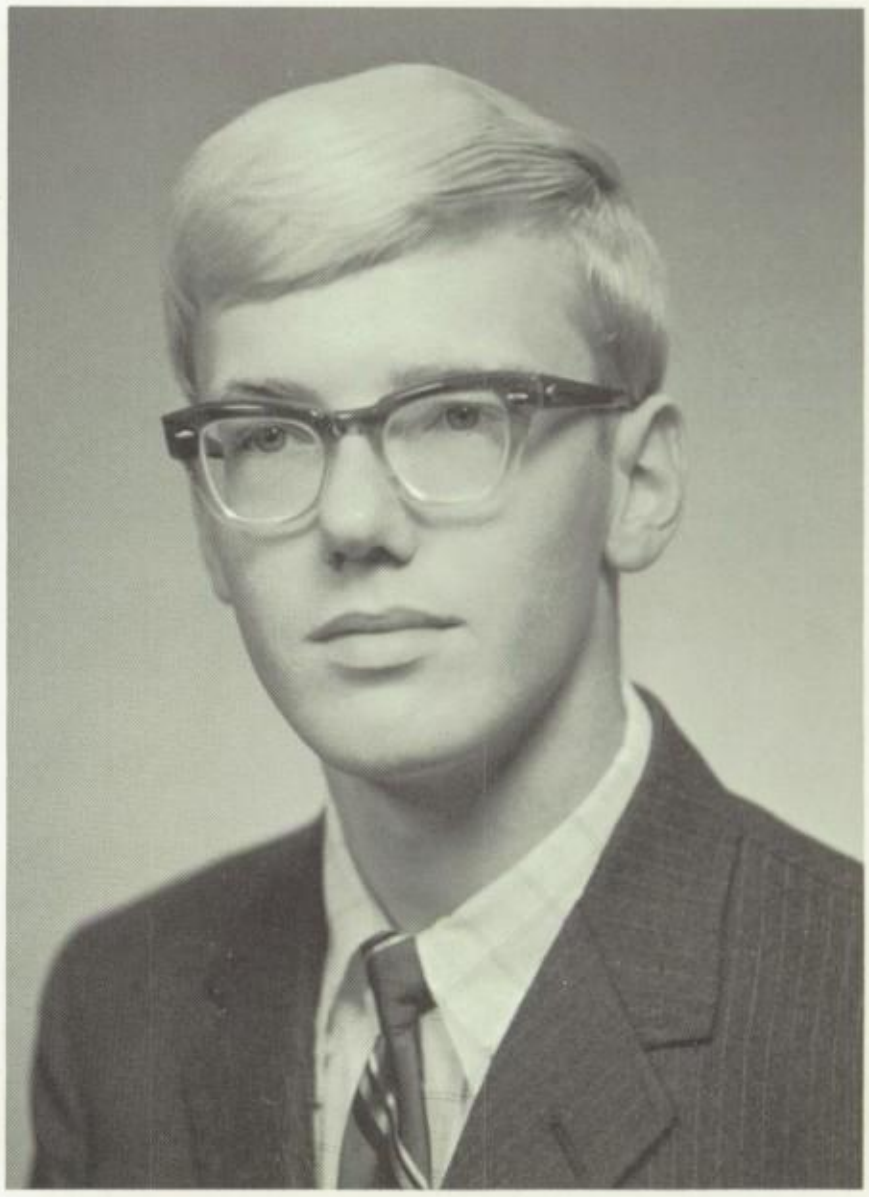
ROBERT NORMINGTON KEBBON
2504 Bluecutt Rd.
Columbus, Mississippi 39701

"Bob" has been at Bolles for three years. He enjoys riflery, swimming, hi-fi, and goofing off. After graduation Bob plans to go to either the University of Michigan or the University of Illinois to study architecture. He is a member of the Key Club.

JAY HIRSCH KERN
69 Versailles Blvd.
New Orleans, La. 70125

"Jay" came to Bolles in his junior year. He has been an active part of the Bridge and Chess Club, the Spanish Club, the Debating team, and the yearbook staff. His hobbies include coin collecting, driving, and drawing. Jay wants to go to college in the New England area to study pre-medicine or architecture.





JAMES WILKINSON KITCHING

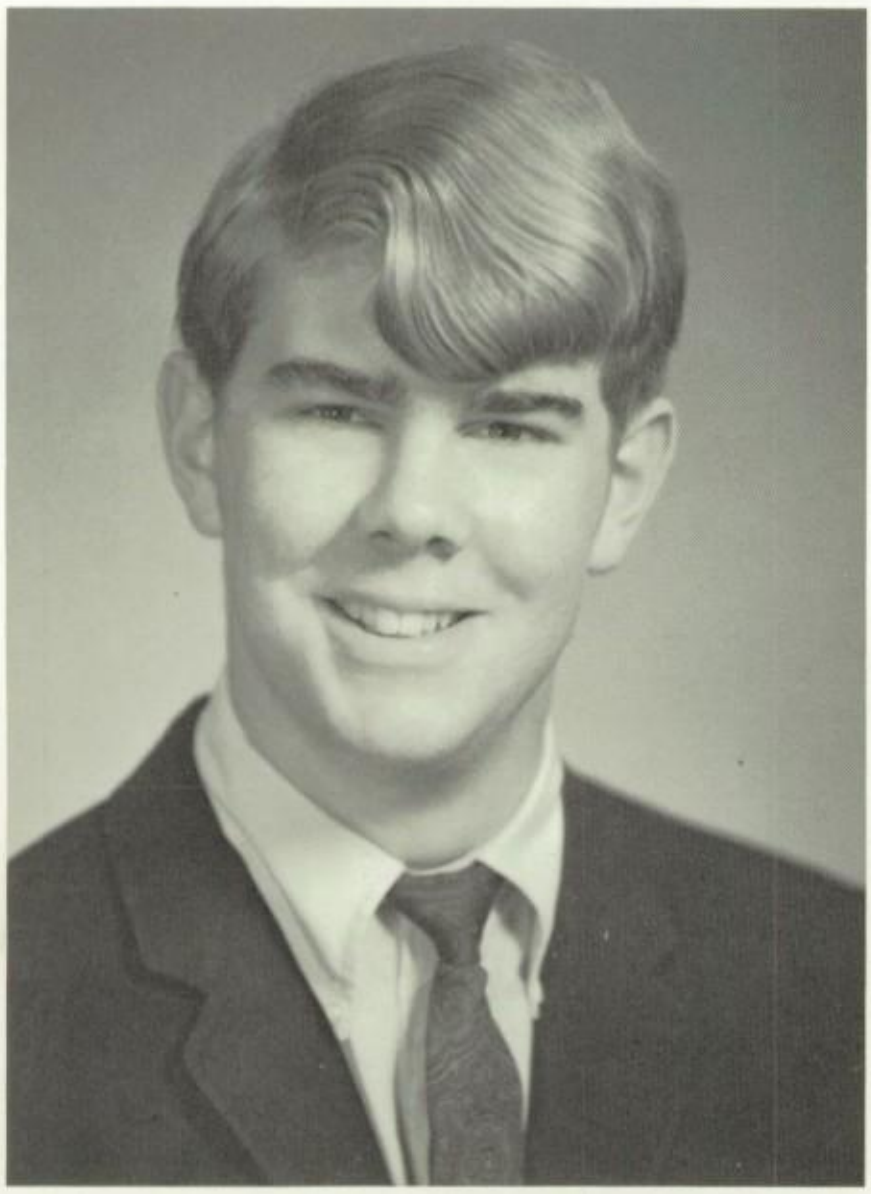
Lake City, Fla. 32055

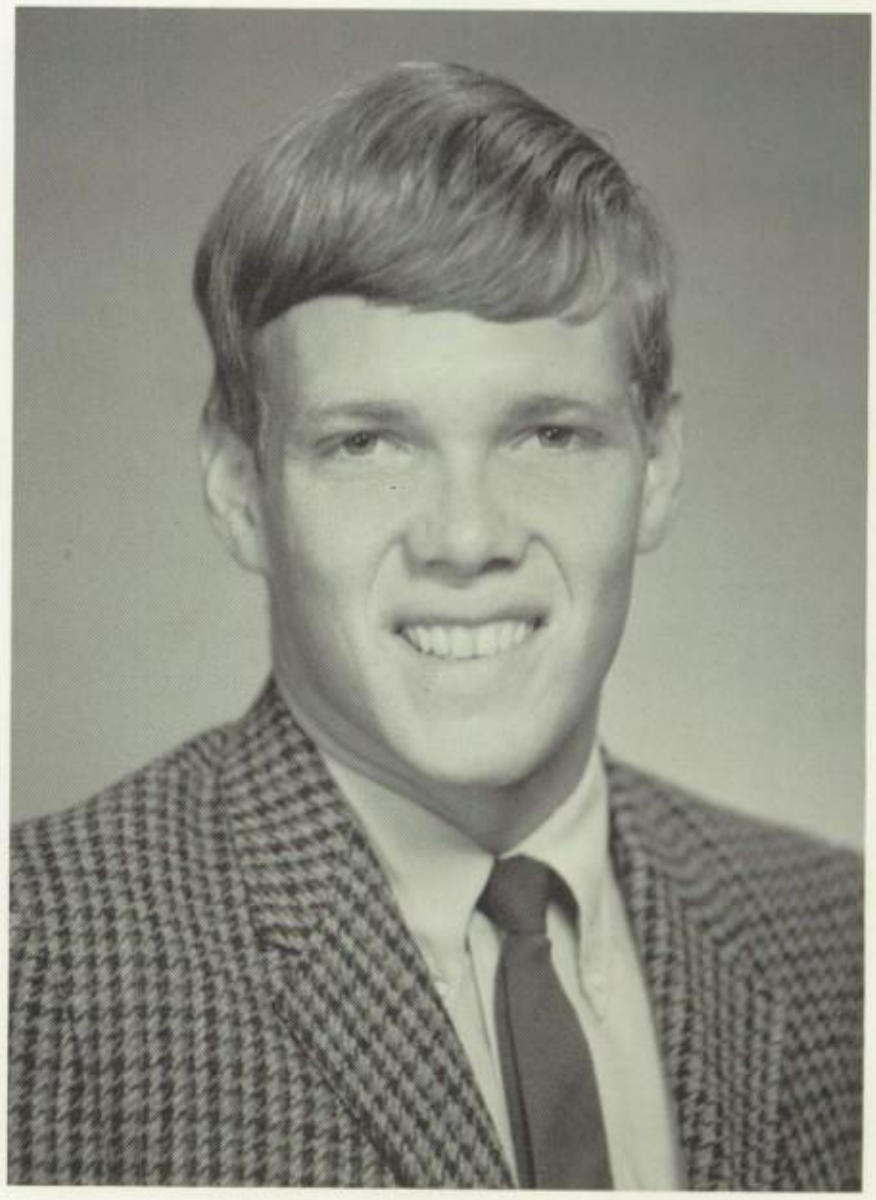
"Rob" entered the hallowed halls of Bolles three years ago. While here, he has been with the Spanish Club, Key Club, Procrastinators Club, Bugle Staff, and the Forensics League. Rob plans to study liberal arts at St. Andrews College, then transfer to Emory for his Law degree. Since arrival, Mr. Wheless has enjoyed losing all sense of time and direction and getting forty-five quarters from Mrs. Green in order to call Marion.



WILLIAM VICTOR WILKERSON
1932 Sweetbriar Lane
Jacksonville, Fla.

"Bill" has been with us for the past six years, entering Bolles in the seventh grade. His hobbies include tinkering with small radios and hi-fi sets, playing golf, and music. Bill's college plans include entrance at either Duke, Vanderbilt, Rice, or Georgia Tech, majoring in engineering or applied science. During his long career at Bolles, Bill has participated in the Drama Club, the Junior Classical League, the Forensics League, and the Young Republicans. Bill hopes to visit Chicago and Washington, D.C. and get away from school for a few months.

JOHN E. WOODRUFF, II
P.O. Box 2074
Panama, Republic of Panama



"The Panama Playboy" baffled Bolles in the eighth grade with his fabulous collection of toads. He has been a member of the Spanish Club, and the Procrastinators Club. His favorite thought about Bolles is the kind and understanding proctor system. John plans to attend Georgetown University or Tulane and study business administration. His summer will be spent at home in a thriving district of Panama.

Having completed their high school careers, these seniors now have time to look back on the past and to reflect upon their futures . . .

JUNIOR CLASS

The Junior Class, under the able supervision of Mr. Somers Randolph, undertook several projects to assist the Seniors with funds to finance the Graduation Dance. These students have the duty of assuming the responsibility necessary in the Senior class and carrying on in the Bolles tradition.

STUDENT

FIRST SEMESTER

The first semester Student Council, hoped to realize student desires for improvement in all aspects of school life. They accounted for liberalization of the school's dress codes and for the formation of a haircut committee, which was suddenly cut off by the faculty for unexplainable reasons.

COUNCIL

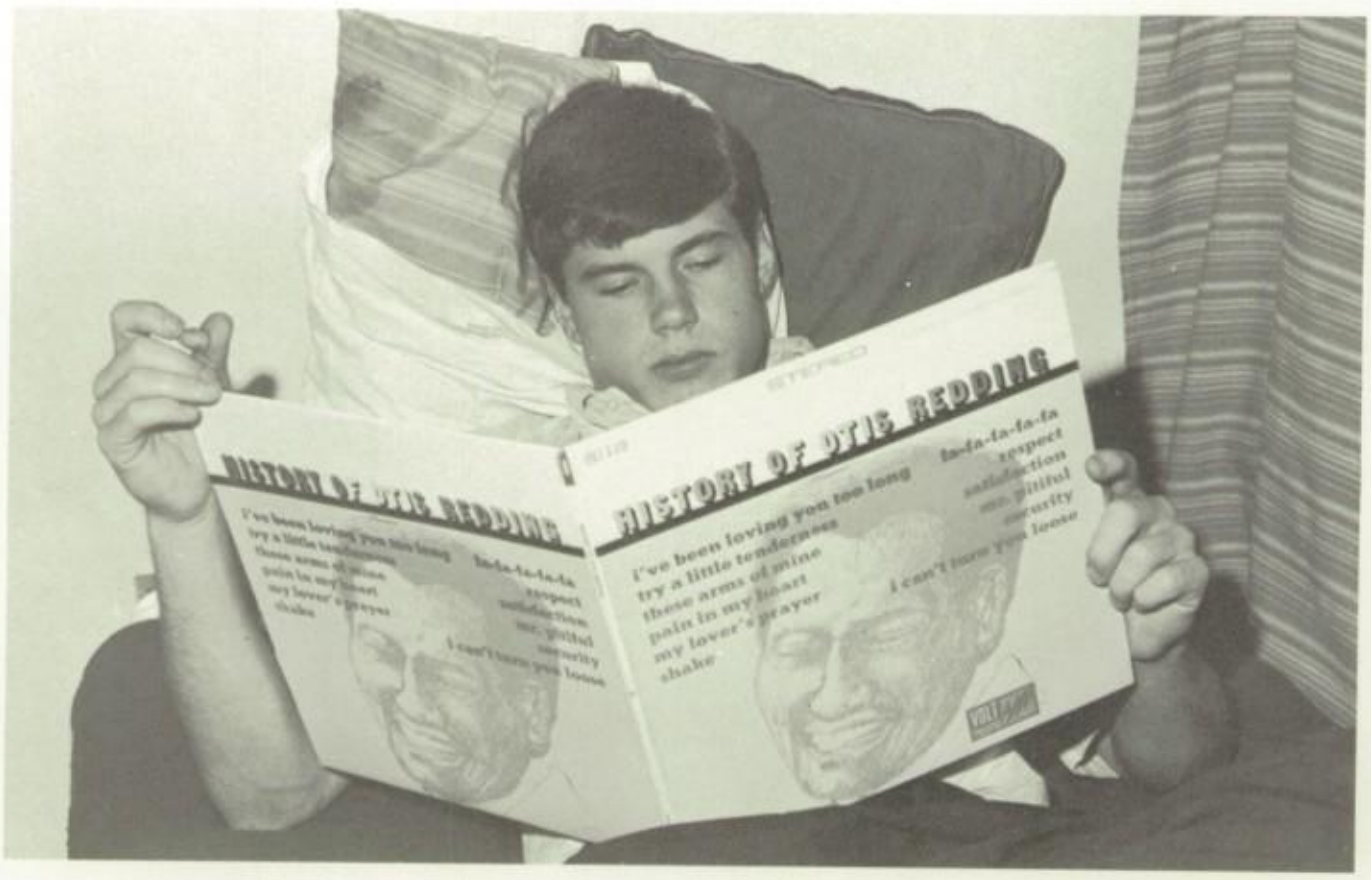
OFFICERS, First Row: Clements, Moore, Wedgworth, Eng, K.J., Stackhouse, Swink, Waterman, West, Mr. Joe Dyess, Advisor. Lumpkins, Robarts. Second Row: Eng, K., Skinner, McCain, Consisting basically of the same personnel as the first semester's Council, the second Semester Student Council continued in its efforts to provide legislation favorable to the student interests. A food preference survey and introduction of new proctors into their positions of leadership and responsibility to insure the element of self-discipline so important at Bolles were undertaken.

SECOND SEMESTER



The "Soul Man" reading history.

BRADLEY HALL

Graham Marlette, Hall Supervisor

Bradley Hall, known for its sit-down strike and "Death Row." was watched over by Mr. Graham Marlette as it commanded the south wing of the third floor. Consisting of the more studious boarders, it spent its year struggling for stability in an area of unrest.

McKNIFF HALL

Andrew Jitkoff, Hall Supervisor

McKniff Hall, with Mr. Andrew Jitkoff as hall supervisor, is found at the south end of the second floor. Here is found the new Student Lounge, where students can relax in an atmosphere of warm camaraderie and enjoy the luxury of the filthy rich, with television on Saturday mornings and Sunday afternoons.

Bill Waterman, Head Proctor

SNYDER HALL

Snyder Hall, occupying the south wing of the dormitories, had the feared reputation of having the most strict hall proctors, which are known to be feared on every hall in any case. Led by Mr. Frank Anderson, this hall had distinct pride in the fact that it won the distinguished award of "Honor Hall" twice, quite a respectable achievement for any hall.

Searles Hall occupies the northern wing of the second floor of the dorms. Mrs. Roane, the housemother, with her milk and cookies provided the motherly touch to the seventh, eighth, and ninth grade occupants of the hall. Mr. Gunn, the hall supervisor, assisted by Doug Wedgworth, the head proctor, and the other proctors created a very friendly atmosphere this year.

BOLLES COURT SYSTEM

One of the largest controversies on campus concerns the Bolles School Court system, a meaningful and fulfilling method of self-discipline and justice. Patterned after the United States legal system, it is complete with judges, court clerks, robes and gavels. The system does provide a healthy atmosphere of repentance by defendents and wisdom of the judges and their efficient assistants.

DAY BOY PROCTORS, First Row: West, Moore, J., McCain, Cousar, Skinner. Second Row: Becker, Walter, Retter.

DAY BOY & DINING ROOM PROCTORS

DINING ROOM PROCTORS – Beaufort, Hollod, Toole, Richardson.

This Bolles Proctor Squad consists of a very select group of morally dedicated young gentlemen, always prepared to see that law or order prevail within the school. Avoiding anarchy, and still the friend of the common man, this group stands to be commended.

JUNIOR SCHOOL PATROL

ACTIVITIES

ALPHA SOCIETY

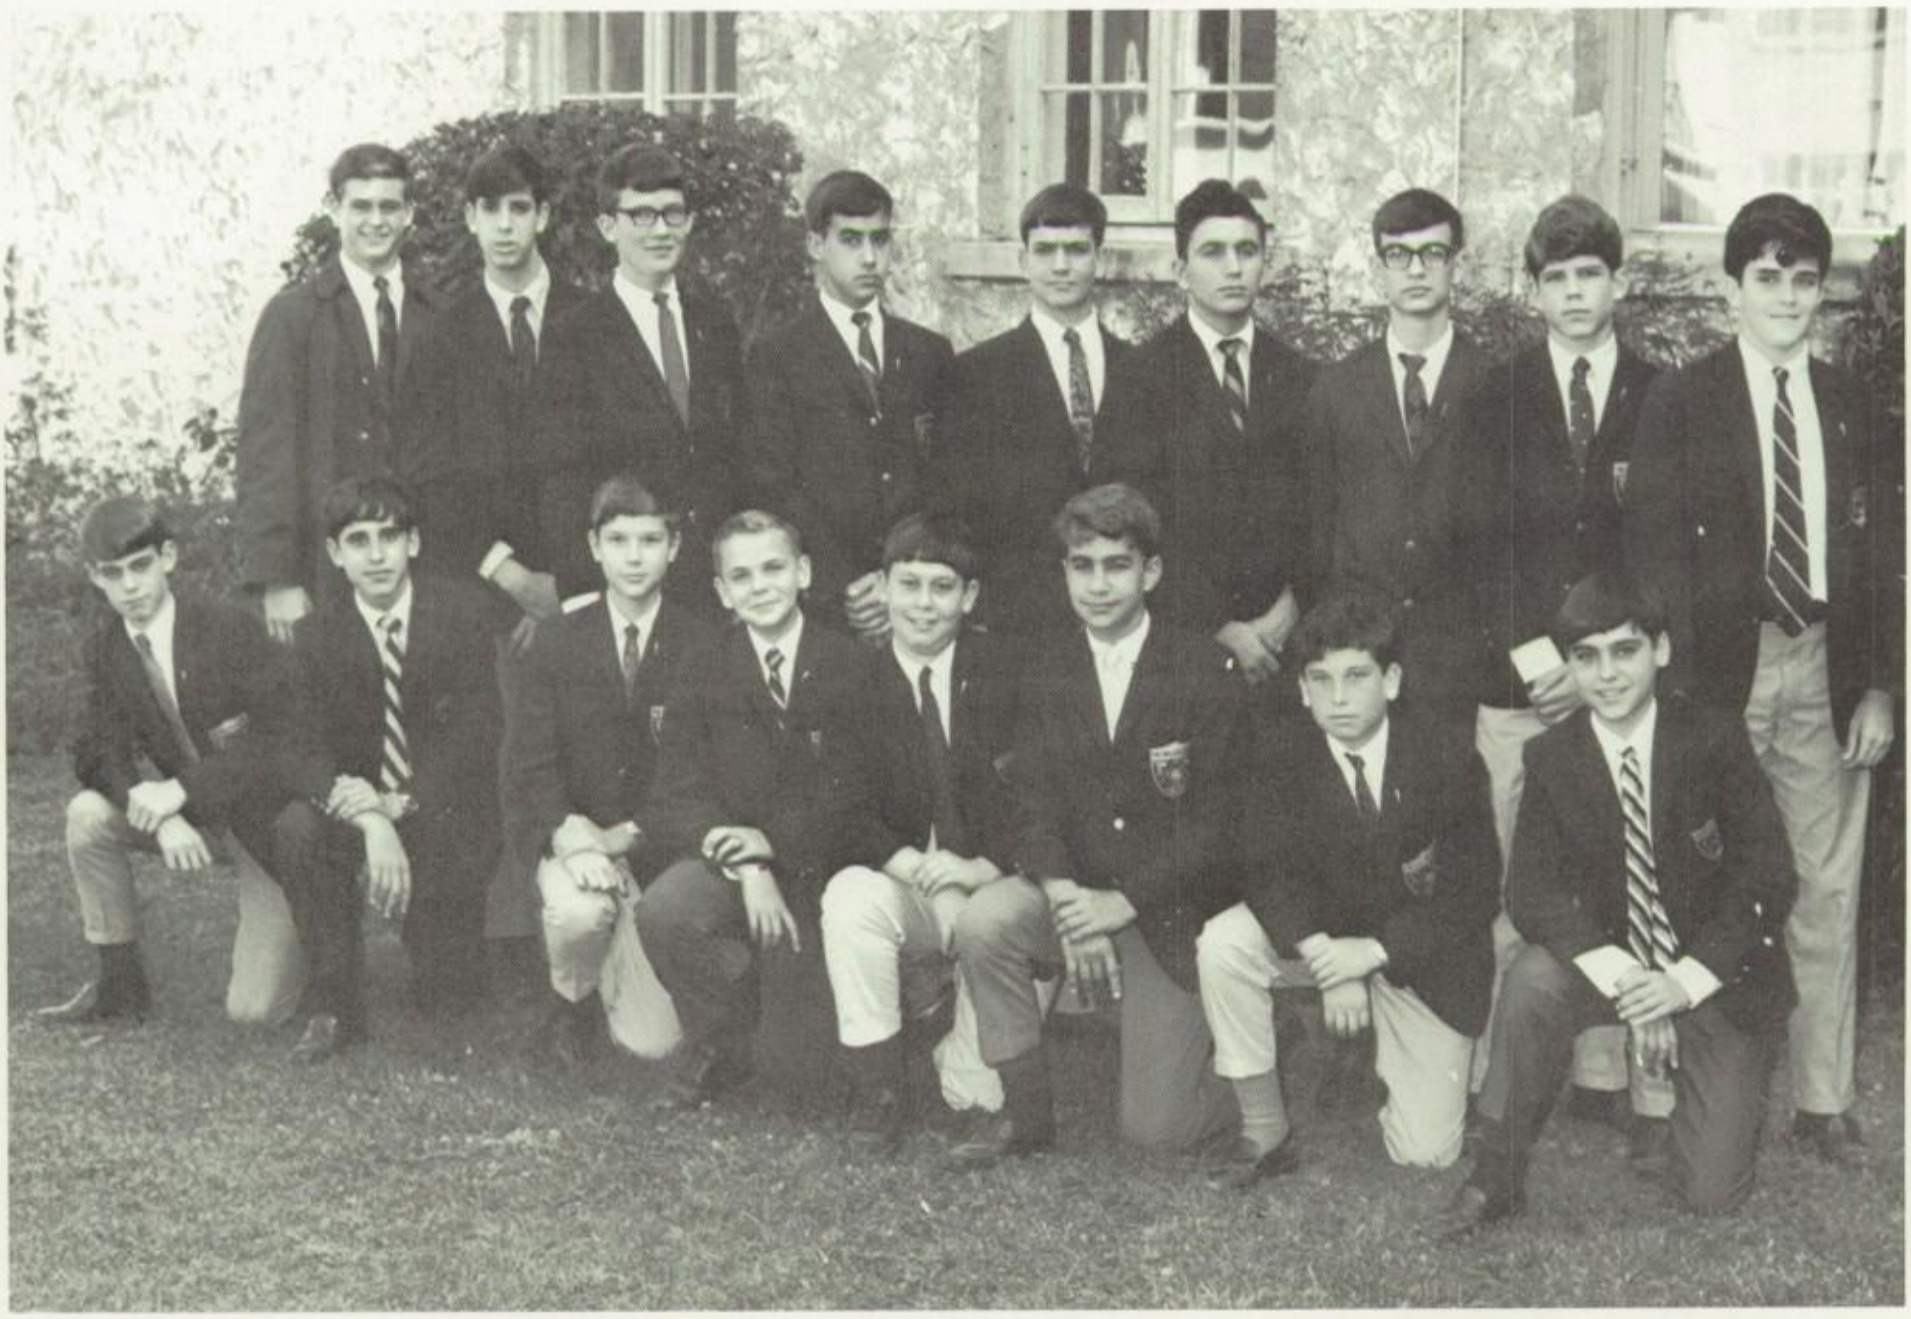
This respectable organization, under the directorship of Mr. Babcock, sought to promote academic ideals in the school. Consisting of those students who had proved their intellectual qualifications, it undertook such admirable activities as a tutoring program for fellow students who wished it, and others concerning intellectual development and interest. Also, a major project was the reactivation of the Beta Society, the Junior School equivalent of the Alpha Society. Its aim is to create a larger and more sweeping academic interest in a fulfilling area of man's life.

BETA SOCIETY

The Beta Society, the junior honor society, consists of boys in the eighth and ninth grades who show superior ability in academics and leadership. In the past it has been inactive, but this year the Alpha Society conducted a formal induction to put new life in the worthwhile club.



First Row: Traver, Spevak, Smith, Parsons, Spewak, Miller, Coleman, Spevak. Second Row: Platt, Edwards, Trammel, Gillander, Graves, Dostie, Adkins, Forester, Schultz.

Club Advisor, Somers Randolph.

This athletic organization, honoring those boys who have earned a varsity letter through their skill in sports, was again assisted by Mr. Somers Randolph. Its various activities included collecting money for the Heart Fund, donating a movie projector to the Athletic Department, and providing laughter with their comedy initiations.

"B" CLUB

CENTURIONS

Officers: Richardson, Carter, Waterman, Brown, C.L.

Holding their own, the Centurions still stand aloof, as the oldest service club at Bolles. Throughout the year the Centurions perform various good deeds, both on and off campus. A very select group of civic and cultural minded young men, the club is always alert to come to the aid of the school, or any needy cause. Mr. Harry DeMontmollin is the able advisor of this select organization.

First Row: Beaufort, Carter, Wedgeworth, Brown, C.L. Plunkett. Second Row: Hardy, B., Hardy, A., Royall, Mc Arthur, McCrary. Third Row: Johnson, J., Crews, Tomlinson, Davies, Richardson

DRAMA CLUB

Arthur Carnes, director, gives instructions to B. Waterman.

Drama, "the mirror by which life is viewed," was given a special lift this year thanks to the skillful directorship of Mr. Arthur J. Carnes. Highly successful productions of three one-act plays, "Rope Enough to Die," and "The Twelfth Night" stimulated an already growing interest in many students for the activity, using for the first time the new library as a stage. Much work and sacrifice went into the club's presentations though the rewards, as will be maintained by the actors, were more than worth it.

First Row: Scribner, Shore, Cobb, LaPorte, Mosias. Second Row: Price, I., Ringelstein, Harper, Wheless, Rivers, Trager, Tyler.

ART CLUB

The Art Club was sponsored by Mrs. Betty Huddleston. In their efforts to go to New York, money was earned through a tremendous poster sale, a victory dance after the Fletcher basketball game, and other prosperous activities. Its spirit and enthusiasm was admired and it is hoped it will spread throughout the school.

Sitting: Bailey, Halpert, Binkley, Shore. Standing: Zahra, Rhyne, J., Evans, Anderson, D., Radler, Scribner, Vice-President; Cousar, Betty Mae Huddleston, Advisor; Rivers, President.

Sitting: Rivers, Franklin, Wilkerson. Standing: Grubb, Price, I., McCrory, Cowdery, Radler, Weiss, Gatling, Cain, William N. Babcock, Advisor.

FORENSICS LEAGUE

The Forensics League, under the guidance of Mr. William Babcock, took part in local, state, and national debate competition. Its expenses were paid by the school and its activities were pushed on by the interest in acquiring skill in debating, mental prowess, and logic and organization. This demanding club offers innumerable returns in experience in sensible reasoning, an indispensable item in business in which so many Bolles graduates will engage.

GERMAN CLUB

The purpose of the German Club at Bolles is to orient interested German students in the German way of life—The feeling being that learning a language is more than the study of grammar, construction and vocabulary. The club gives members a chance to experience German food, films, literature and other cultural aspects of Germany, so that they may better understand how a German lives and thinks.

GLEE CLUB

First Row: Evans, Zimmerman, McNeil, Boney, Byrd, Granger. Second Row: Rowe, Hersig, Stadler, Parsons, Baker, Mills, Ragosta, Lane. Third Row: Parker, Broward, Smith, Hancock, Philips, Smith, Puleo, Higgenbotham, McDonald, Johnson, Broach Thomas, Heath, Latiff.

The Glee Club, in its effort to promote interest and activity in yet another area of the humanities, presented two concerts this year—one a Christmas-spirit inspired production and the other given at Easter. Both Upper and Lower School students participated in this rewarding experience and we hope that their ever-growing talent—talent not to be overlooked or slighted to any degree—will carry on with them throughout their lives.

INVESTMENT CLUB

First Row: Mosias, Vaughn, Tyler, Hagel Mitchell, Allen, G., Loggins, Price, N., Margol. Second Row: Ludwig, Wood, Arnold, W., Ingram Ramsey, Sullivan, Bryo, Weiss, Berdit, Price, I. Third Row: Avent, E.C., Tomberlin, Milberg, Eason, Owen, W., Townsend, Browning, Owen, D., McCrory.

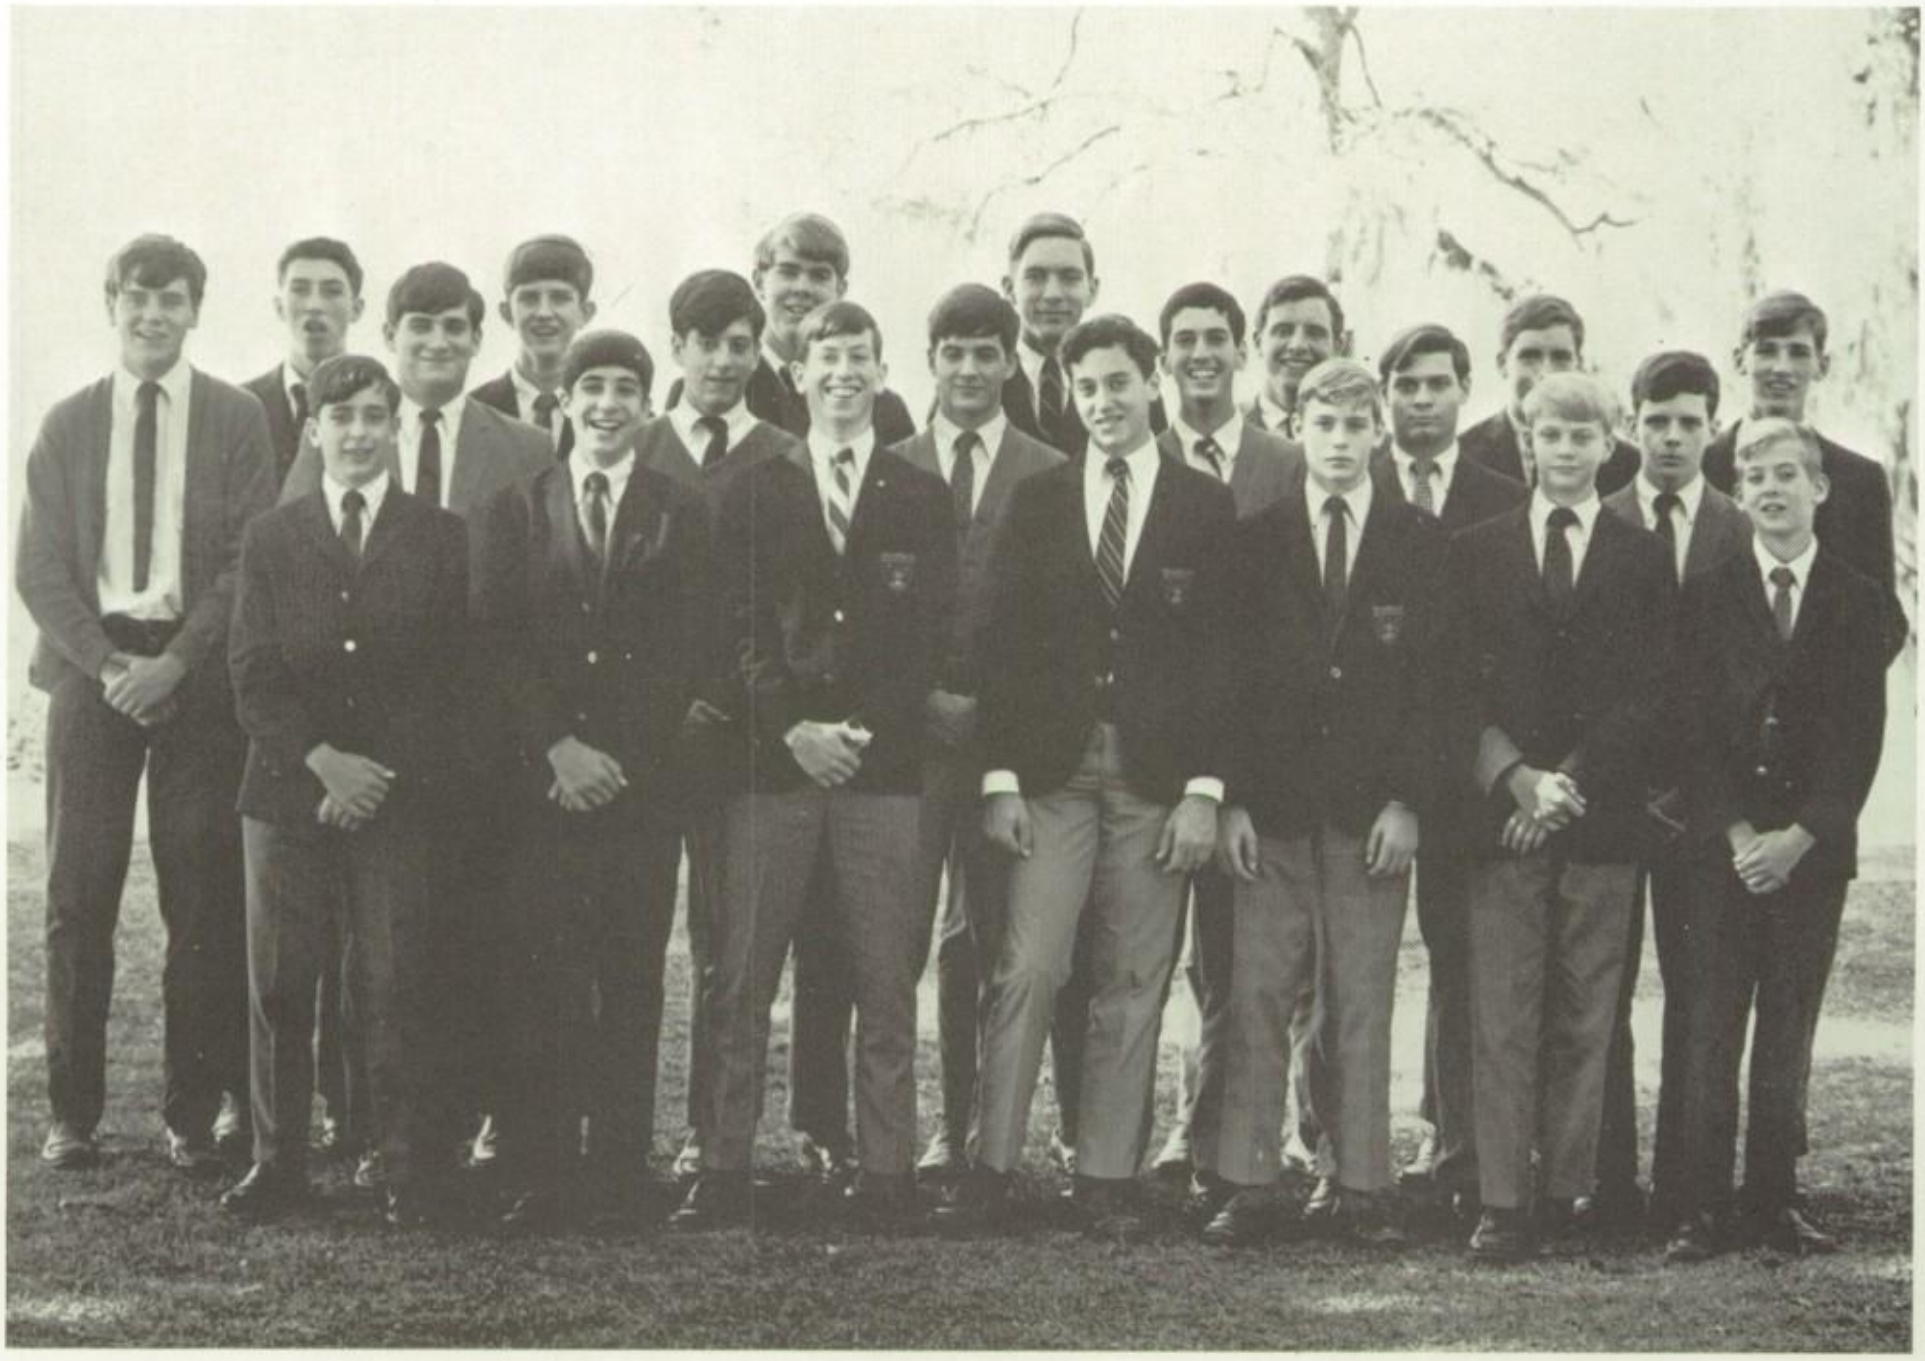
The Investment Club's third year at Bolles was once again a success. The members, who produce capital and trade on the stockmarket, were able to show a club profit for the year. Besides getting a chance to make money, these future financiers learn about stock transactions and the world of business in general.

Officers: Lobrano, Wilkerson, Margol, R., Stackhouse, Brownett.

OFFICERS: McCain, Lumpkins, Stackhouse.

The Junior Classical League, with Mr. Al Bachleda as its faculty advisor, continued in its efforts to revive interest in Latin—a language that is the all-important predecessor and basis of our own English language. Among other activities, the J.C.L. contributed books to the library about classical languages and their cultures. They also played host to the state Latin Forum. Bolles can be proud in the fact that the president of the J.C.L. was also the Florida State Latin Forum president.

J.C.L.



First Row: Jaben, Fayne, McCain, S., Cowdery, J., Knauer. Second Row: Fisher, J. Kauss, M. Weiss, Codding, Raybin, Adams, W., Howell. Third Row: Thomas, Abernathy, Wilkerson, Kroner, McMillan, Denham, McCrory.

KEY CLUB

This club turned out to be one of the most hard working at Bolles this year. Supervised by Mr. Frank Anderson, it set out to build character and leadership, set ideals, and provide numerous services to the school and the community by raising money for the Jacksonville Muscular Dystrophy drive, setting up a P.A. system in the gym and contributing a billboard with the names and numbers of the basketball players, presenting two American flags to the school, and initiating the Teacher Recognition Program. This club should be given many thanks for its spirit-filled efforts to improve the school.

Frank A. Anderson

SPANISH CLUB

La Sociedad Hispanica, headed by Mr. Luiz Gomez and Mr. Harmon Fowler, offered such services to the school as dances, car washes, films, and guest speakers. To increase interest in Spanish-speaking countries, a trip to Lima, Peru was taken during the spring vacation, chaperoned by Mr. Gomez. The club is one of the more hard-working on campus and special thanks should be given to Mr. Gomez and Mr. Fowler for their devotion to and interest in making available to all students more than what is normally offered.

Señior Luis Gomez

BRIDGE AND CHESS CLUB

The Bridge and Chess Club, directed by Mr. Ken Durkee, opened its first year with a surprisingly large membership. In its efforts to promote interest in games of mental agility, it sponsored a faculty-club member tournament and was quite active within the club itself. Various matches were held among themselves, and we are sure the club will prosper during its existence at Bolles.

TURRIS STAFF

Harry deMontmollin, Advisor

First Row: Scribner, Peek. Second Row: Lobrano, Brown, Waterman, Richardson, Carter, Rivers. Third Row: Kern, Becker, Shore, Bundy.

Through the work and play, the trials and tribulations, the smiles and curses, the 1968 Turris has gradually grown from a dream to a reality which you now see before your eyes. The rewarding experience of working on the yearbook has offered to us benefits that we will never forget in our future years at Bolles or at college. The friendships riveted, the understanding of Bolles and its organization deepened, the pure enjoyment and satisfaction of accomplishing such a lasting project—all have added a memory imprinted on our very souls. We now relinquish our heart-warming task to the class of '69 and hope they enjoy their work as we have ours. This mirror of Bolles in the year of '68 is to give you the reflection of the spirit that carries on the process of education, to which Bolles is devoted.

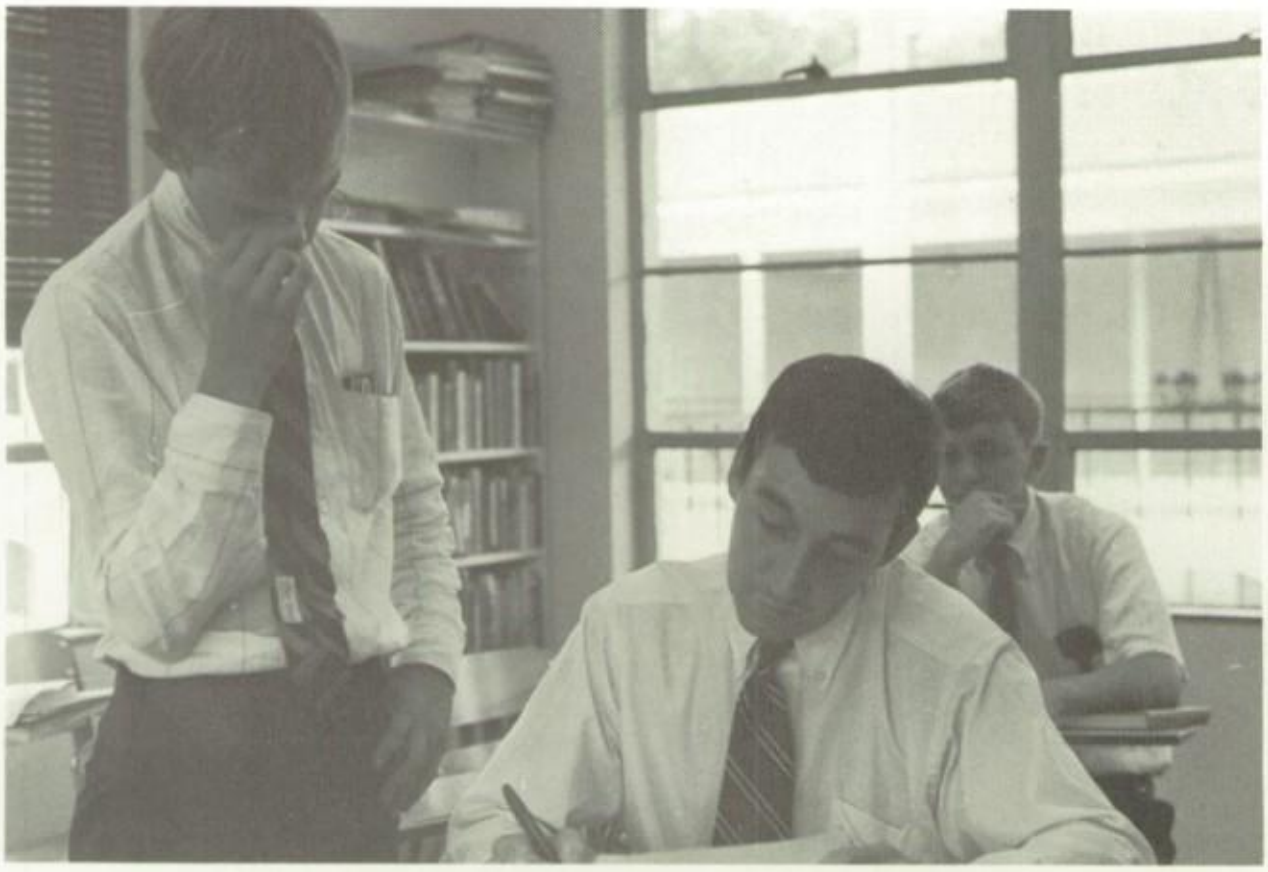
PHOTO STAFF

The Photo Staff provided the lasting visual impressions of Bolles for both the Bugle and the Turris. This area of publications has proved to be most valuable in its contribution to making Bolles remain in the memories of students after graduation.

Jenkins, K., Beaufort, C., Fisher, J., Jenkins, H., Schell, W.

THE BUGLE STAFF



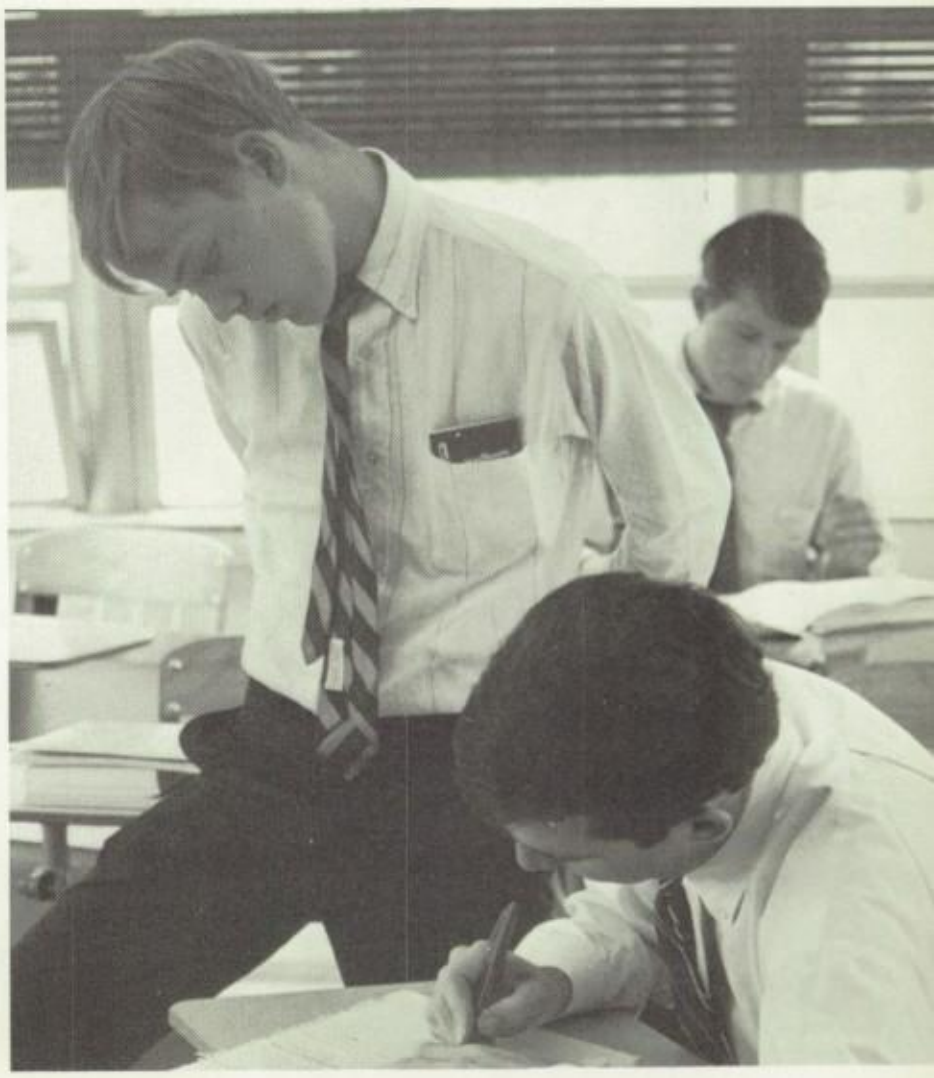
The Bugle, Bolles' school newspaper, followed in the tradition of previous Bugles, such as the '67 editions, which won a Superior Achievement award in competition with all the high school newspapers and a Second Place award given by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association in competition with all the nation's newspapers. Most of the work done on the paper was done by the Journalism classes, although a significant portion of stories and other contributions were made by individuals simply interested in the paper. Editor-in-Chief Jim Stackhouse, is to be congratulated for his outstanding work on such an arduous task and time-consuming responsibility.

ADVERTISING

Advertising Managers: Wilkerson, Weiss

Without this area of Turris and Bugle production, there would be no yearbook or school newspaper, for their job is to obtain the advertisements that for the most part are the financial props that insure publication. Much time has been expended in their task that is indispensable yet generally unrecognized which they fully deserve to be.

Bugle Advisor: Graham Marlette



First Row: Houston, Varn, Davidson, Rawls, Coleman. Second Row: Bettman, Smith, Parsons, Hancock, Spewak.

EAGLE STAFF

The Eagle Staff, the Lower School's answer to the Bugle, was headed again by Mrs. Cora Toole. It covers news stories and information about Lower School activities as well as creative works by the younger students. It provides valuable experiences for later years in developing talent for publications in general.

Coaches—Callahan, Soloman, Spruce, Britt, Randolf.

The Varsity Football team entered the Florida Star Conference this year, which is considered the best Class "A" conference in the state as it has produced state champion teams for the past several years. After losing the first four games, the Bulldogs came back to win five out of the last six as a result of the able coaching of Mr. Spruce and Mr. Soloman. This made what would ordinarily be a mediocre season a highly gratifying one.

The Varsity Basketball team fared strongly in the '68 season. Though having only a tied record of 11–11, it can boast of their upset win against Ribault and by giving the toughest fight against Lake City, state champions. The team also has a fine future in store for it as many of the players were but sophomores with still two more years to play.

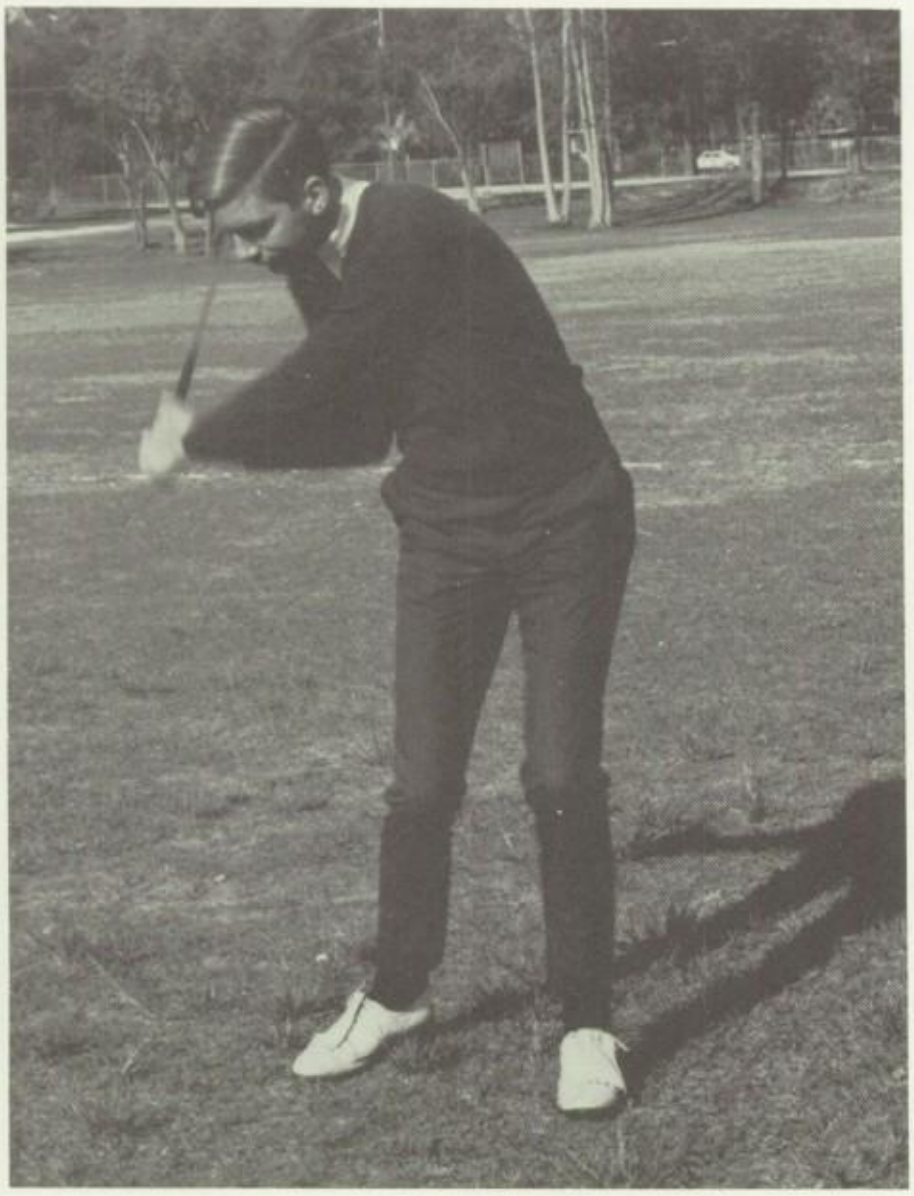
Coach Soloman Skinner, Reynolds, Hagel, Scales, Griffin, Kroner, Ingram, Richter, Stein, Margol, Bartley.

GOLF

When spring comes to Bolles, so does golf. This year's team, coached by Mr. Soloman, competed in the Florida Star Conference, and did very well. With all players being experienced golfers, opponents found the Bolles golf team hard to beat.

Charles Soloman, Coach



Kroner takes a practice swing.

Golf Schedule

Scales shows fine form.

TRACK

The track team got off to an early start this year, by beginning practice during the winter months. Coach Burgess emphasized running and exercises in order to build endurance. This developed stamina led to a successful season.

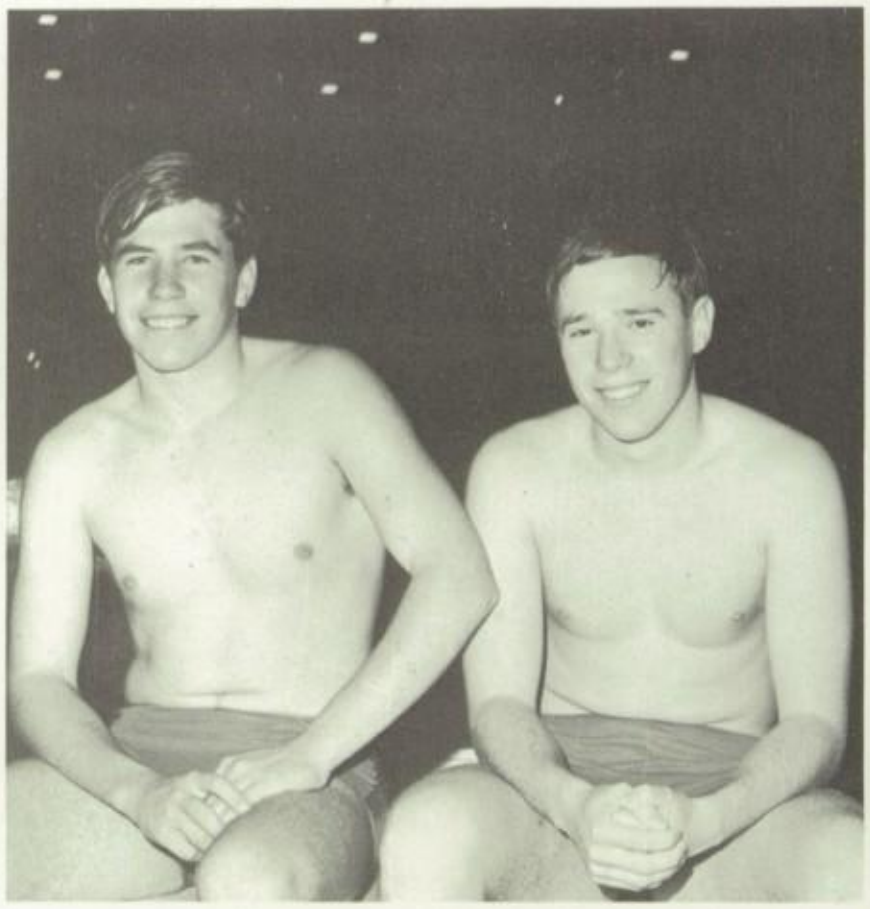
Stevens warms up on the track.

Practice on the hurdles.

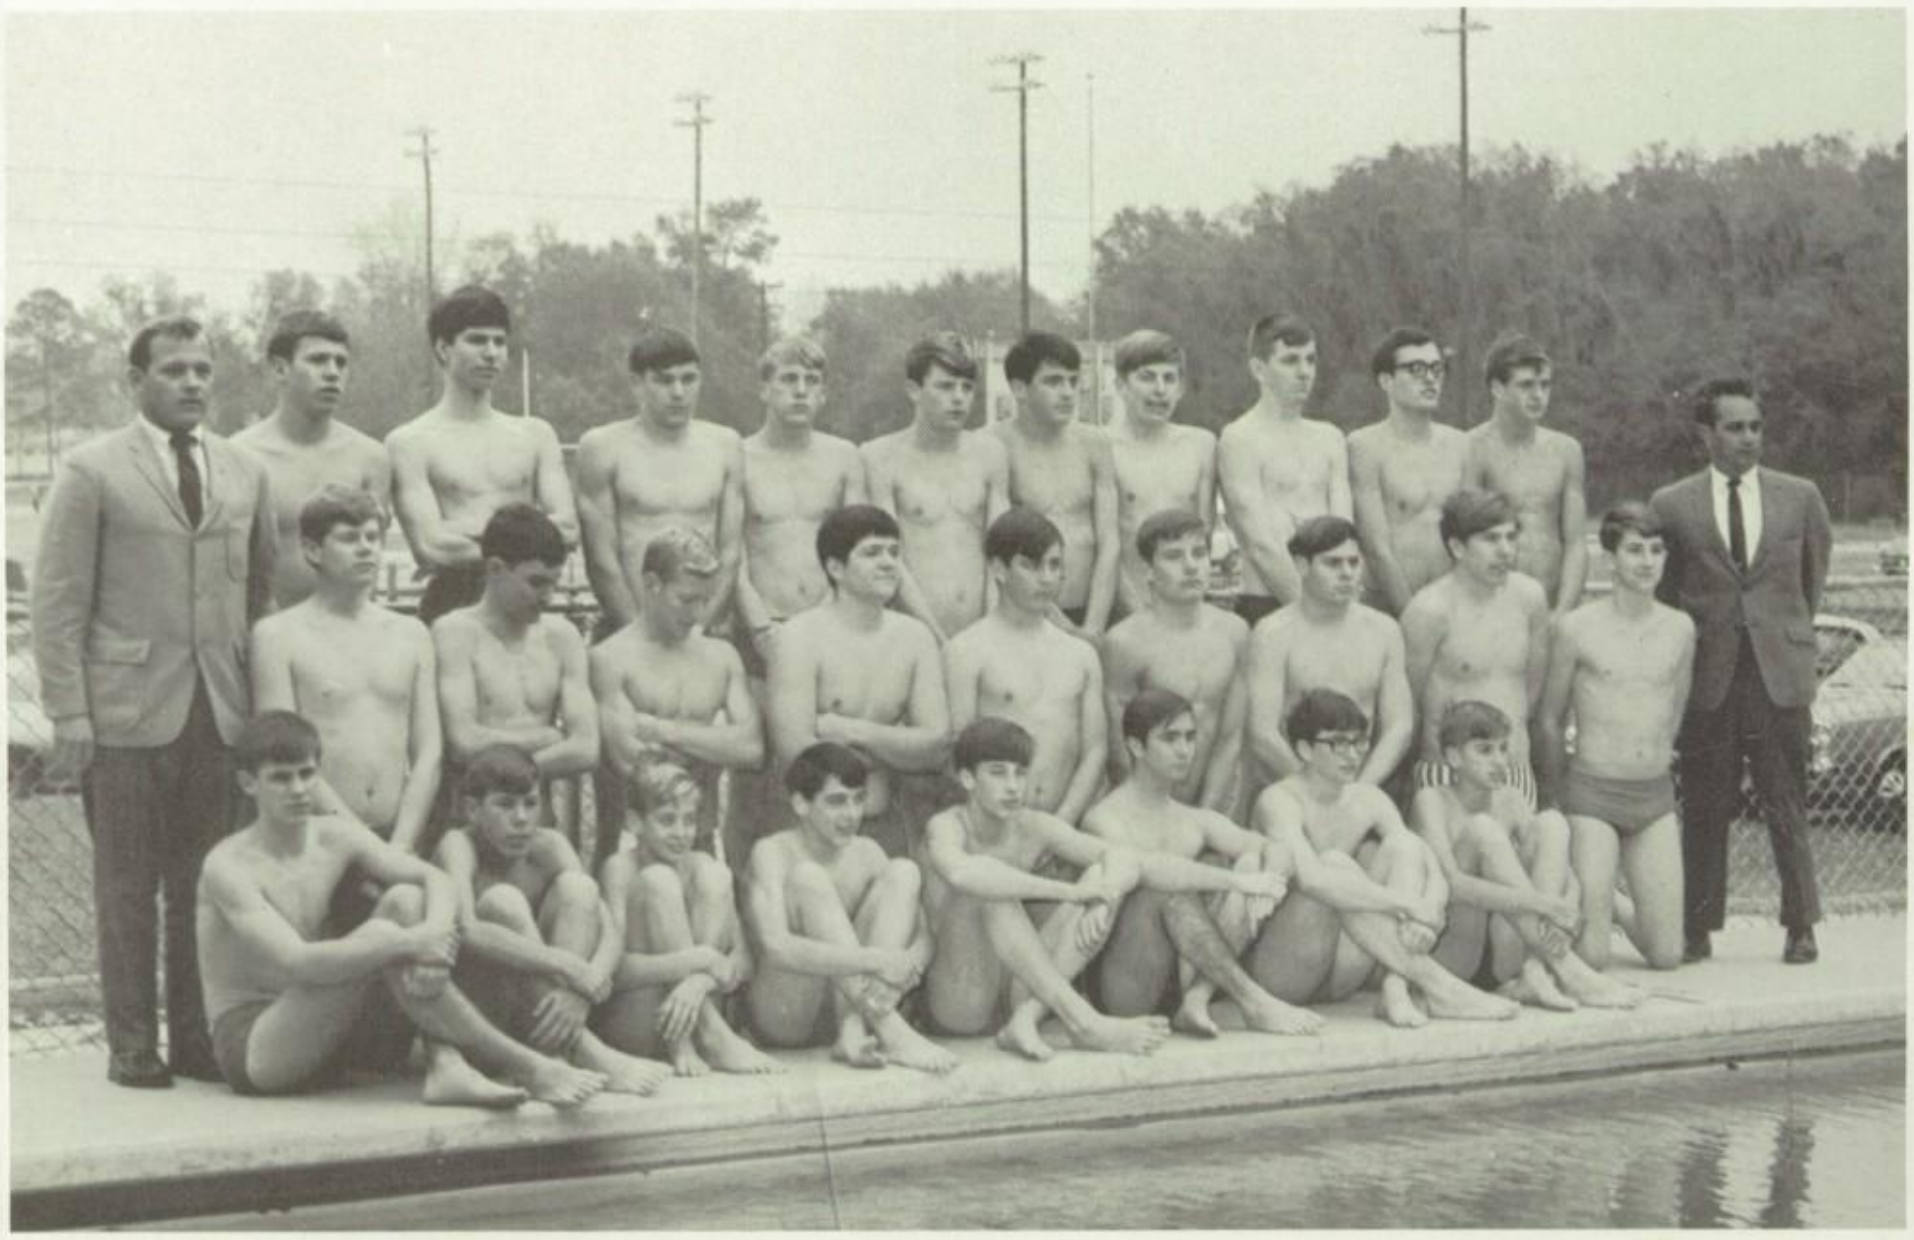
SWIMMING

This year's swimming team was one of the strongest in Bolles history. Coached by Mr. Garces and Mr. Campbell, the team swept past local competition and went on to place in the state. The key to their success was a depth and background, that developed through long months of practice and work.



Co-Captains, Champ Avent, George Retter

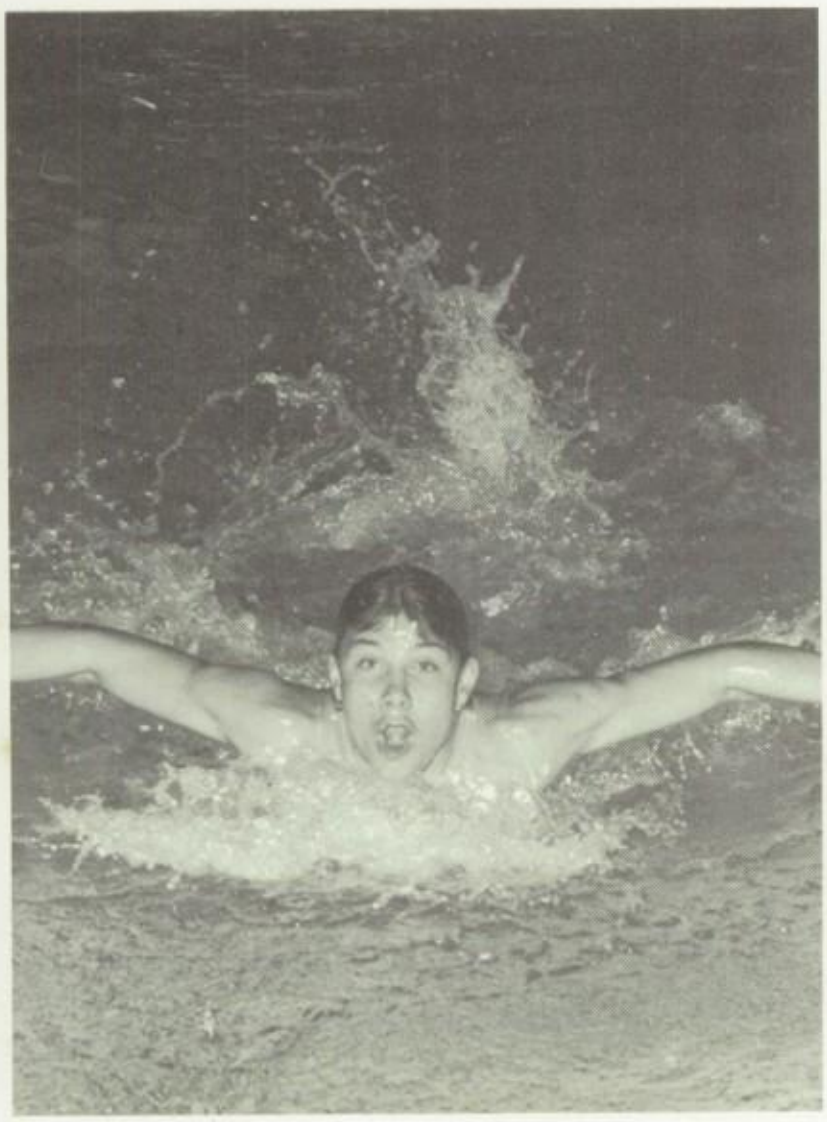
First Row: John Wood, Chris Smith, Jerry Knauer, Jimmy Bailey, Mike Marco, Cliff Higbee, Doug Bronson, Greg Devereau. Second Row: Coach George Campbell, Robert Kebbon, Jim Cousar, Greg Hardee, Raymond Hellier, Larry Garces, Andy Anderson, Bill Adams, Champ Avent, Richard Harvey, Coach Tavi Garces. Third Row: George Retter, Steve Weinstein, Bill Dickie, Jeff Ludwig, Bruce Robinson, Craig Robinson, John Thompson, Jack Howell, Charles Haseltine, Tom Platt



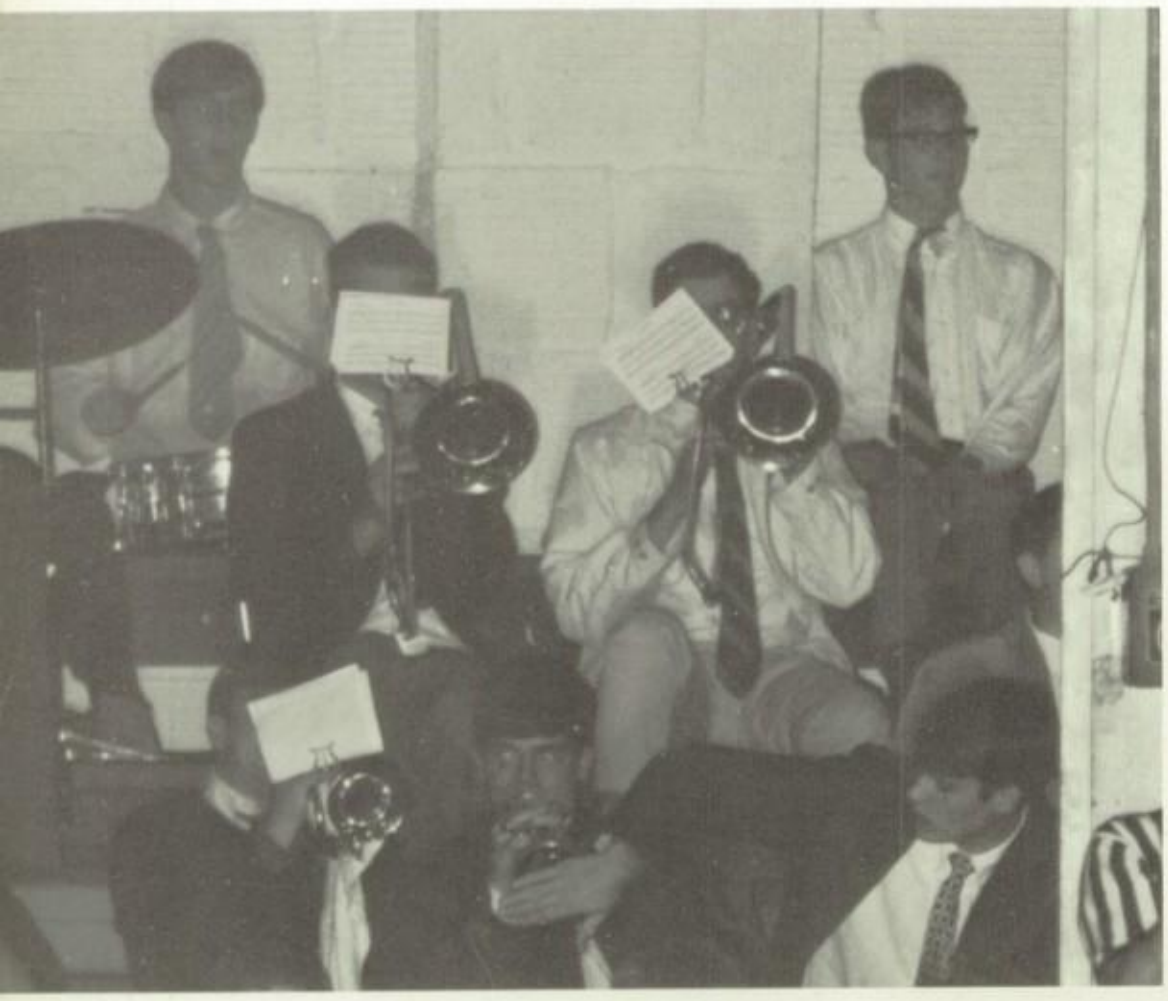
Bang!

Cliff Higbee exhibits fine style.

Andy Anderson races for the final meter.



"PEP BAND"



The "Pep Band," initiated by Mr. Frank Callihan, introduced a new dimension to Bolles athletics—school spirit. The band played at the basketball games and aroused an intense sense of pride in the team and the school.

VARSITY DOCK

Howie Clark skiing on the beautiful St. John's River.

A favorite activity at Bolles has always been dock. Taking advantage of Bolles location on the St. Johns River, students on dock engage in skiing, sailing and other water sports, as well as doing maintenance work on the boats and equipment.

ATHLETICS

McMillan actively participating in the program.

"Idle hands are the devils workshop" and the fine athletic program of Bolles makes certain that such a thing will never happen. Mr. Octavio Garces, and a staff of able assistants, keep the student's afternoons occupied. Intramural football, volleyball, and other forms of good clean fun give boys a chance to release their frustrations, as well as strengthen their growing young bones.

Heading toward the goal, Moore moves around end.
